THIEU OKS SHOOTING

Talk Designed To Suppress

. . . Provocation Suggested

©The New York Times

Saigon — President Nguyen Van Thieu instructed the national police Wednesday that they may "shoot down anyone who attempts to burn vehicles in the streets," in a speech clearly designed to suppress even the kinds of attempts the opposition has made so far to disrupt his uncontested election campaign.

With the election only four days away, Thieu has made only three speeches on national television, one campaign trip, to the sparsely-populated central highlands, and Wednesday addressed a convention of 400 national policement from all over Vietnam.

Even as a small demonstration of rock-throwing students in Da Nang was being dispersed by the police, Thieu told his audience, "We cannot tolerate a minority that sows confusion and creates disturbances among the people."

In Saigon in recent days, as expressions of popular discontent with the one-man election have mounted, small bands of students have been tossing gasoline bombs at police jeeps and at American vehicles.

Thieu told his police, "I would suggest that you pick up some tough and strong people among you and let them drive government vehicles into the demonstrations as a provocation for the demonstrators to stop and burn the car. Then get out and arrest them. There are always only one or two leaders in these things and you should pick up only the real troublemakers, and punish them severely."

To make sure the opposition got the point, the official government spokesman, Vu Khanh, read this part of the president's remarks to the Vietnamese and foreign press at the daily afternoon briefing. Vietnamese reporters scurried out to get the news into their papers after he finished speaking in Vietnamese.

Khanh later elaborated, in English, "If a demonstrator is caught red-handed, burning automobiles, they can be shot on the spot, or be put in jail."

Some police officers indicated a few days ago that they were aware that they had such authority but so far have declined to use it, on the ground that shooting demonstrators might provoke even more violent reaction.

Saigon is filled with riot police in combat uniforms, and the police occupy one of the bastions of the student activists, the Minh Minh Mang University compound near Cholon.

The students, however, have let it be known that they would not give up their opposition simply because Thieu got tougher.

MRS. SCHMITT . . . displays extensive postcard collection.

Postcard Collection Displays Turn-Of-The-Century Lincoln

If postcards tell the truth. Lincoln was at least as beautiful in the early 1900s as it is now.

For Mrs. Cecil Schmitt's postcard collection includes more than 150 old cards showing fountains, large parks, flower gardens and impressive buildings in Lincoln near the turn of the century.

Mrs. Schmitt — who also collects old china and bisque face dolls—has thousands of other postcards which do not show Lincoln scenes.

But for Lincolnites, her most interesting are probably her Lincoln cards, which like almost all of her cards are mostly postmarked between the years 1907 and 1914.

'A Popular Era'

"The early 1900s, especially between the years 1907 and 1914, was a popular era for everyone to send postcards for almost every occasion," she said.

She noted that during that period, not only Lincolnites, but people all over the country frequently sent deliberately decorated the picture postcards both for everyday correspondence and for special events.

"I don't know why postcards were so popular then," Mrs. Schmitt said, "but they've never been mailed so much since."

One of her Lincoln postcards with the most beautiful scene shows a large fountain with classical statues at the intersection of 11th and J Sts. As anyone familiar with Lincoln can imagine, the card's picture looks much different from the intersection today.

A check on the fountain's history shows it was donated by David E. Thompson, Lincoln businessman, founder of the Lincoln Star and later ambassador to Mexico, in 1902 and was moved to Antelope Park in 1917.

Accidents A Problem

News stories from the time suggest that the fountain was moved because of the car accidents it was causing in the intersection.

Today, the fountain's pit, minus the statues which have been lost over the years, is a home for coatimundis at the Children's Zoo.

Another group of interesting Lincoln cards shows people relaxing at the beautiful Methodist Epworth Park, once located near the Boy Scouts' Camp Minas Kuya, and at Burlington Beach, later called Capitol Beach.

Prominent among her cards picturing the city's business district at that time is one of the old Herpolsheimer's store at 12th and N. The store. which closed in 1931, was called the "Glass Block" because of its many glass windows.

The notes that some Lincolnites wrote on these cards are just as interesting as the pictures.

'How Dry I Am'

One card, postmarked on May 11, 1909, when Lincoln banned liquor the first time, has a note written on it saying, "Nobody knows how dry I am."

Several of her old cards showing the Lincoln Hotel during the time proudly have printing on the front which says ". . . circulating ice water in all rooms."

Mrs. Schmitt, who started her card collection about eight years ago, also is proud of her non-Lincoln scene cards. Many of these cards are decorated with embroidery, fringe borders and small "metal-add-ons."

She has a large collection of thin leather cards, popular at that time, which have pictures and writing tooled on them, several "hold to the light" cards that almost look illuminated and cards which can be read only by holding them to a mirror.

Favors Old Cards

"I think the older postcards, although the colors are duller than on today's slick-finished cards, were very beautiful," she said.

Many of her cards, she believes, also provide insight into what people were thinking and doing during the early 1900s.

She noted, for example, that her many cards with pictures of flags, George Washington and Abraham Lincoln say something about the era's political culture.

Another sign of the cards' age is that most say on them that they can be mailed in the United States for 1 cent and out of the country for 2 cents.

State Unionists Endorse National 'Labor Holiday'

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

North Platte — Frustrated and angry with President Nixon's economic program, AFL-CIO state convention delegates adjourned Wednesday with a threat to join in a proposed national labor walkout.

The convention went on record endorsing a national labor "holiday" if workers do not receive "fair, just and equitable" treatment in the second phase of Nixon's economic policy.

But state AFL-CIO President Richard Nisley of Omaha said the convention's position is "not enforceable."

Expresses Dissatisfaction

Rather, it serves as a means of expressing labor's "complete dissatisfaction with the action of the President," he told newsmen.

"In my opinion, the position can't be implemented."

A number of labor unions have contractual agreements with employers which would prohibit such a walkout, he noted, and it would be "irresponsible" not to abide by that commitment.

Furthermore, Nisley said, the question of labor's response to Phase II will be determined at the national AFL-CIO level, not by state organizations.

'Holiday' Urged

The convention urged the state AFL-CIO organization to declare a labor holiday if the national unit failed to act, assuming that union members consider the Phase II proposals to be unjust.

"In my candid opinion, the resolution has no effect at all,' Nisley said.

But it does serve a psychological purpose in expressing labor's "unhappiness with the unfairness of the President's first phase. and its concern with what will be included in the second phase," he said.

Freeze Condemned

The convention also approved a resolution condemning Nixon's "current pro-corporate, anti-labor wage-price freeze."

At concluding sessions Wednesday, Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota addressed the delegates by a recorded message.

Humphrey's taped message urged organized labor to "continue its role as the social conscience of the nation," battling not only for its own benefit but for the good of the needy, the poor, the aged and the young as well.

"Part Of Action

Although he did not specifically mention presidential ambitions, Humphrey told the delegates that he "want(s) too be part of the action" as America enters "a time of fantastic change."

Organized labor, he said, must "open its ranks to all" and extend its assistance to the migrant farm workers who "need help."

Donald Searcy of Kearney told delegates that they "need congressional representation to protect your interests."

Searcy, who was the Third District Democratic congressional nominee in 1970, is considering another House race next year.

Probably Won't File

But, he later told newsmen, he probably would not file as a candidate for any office (he has not yet finally ruled out a Senate bid either) until the final deadline date should he decide to seek election.

Under new rules imposed on state college faculty members, candidates must take a leave-of-absence without pay as of the time they file for office.

Searcy is a faculty member at Kearney State College.

The 1972 AFL-CIO state convention will be held in Lincoln.

Seat Belts Must Be Buckled On '74 Car Before It'll Start

Washington (UPI) — The government ordered auto manufacturers Wednesday to install on 1974 cars seat belts that must be locked before the vehicle will start.

Auto safety critic Ralph Nader claimed pressure from the manufacturers made the administration overrule its own highway traffic safety experts who recommended the air bags — or something equally as effective — be provided on 1974 model cars.

"Henry Ford has spoken, Richard Nixon has jumped, and 200 million Americans have been deprived for another two years of the most important life saving device developed in recent automotive history," Nader said.

Nader added, "this decision . . . may have to be challenged in the courts at the earliest possible time."

Douglas Toms, national traffic safety administrator, said, "Everyone agrees that passive restraints are the most important breakthrough in auto safety in our time, but we can't expect them to appear in 10-million cars overnight. It is a production problem, not a scientific or technical problem."

$33 Per Car

The anti-start seat belts, which would be required only in the front seats, would add about $33 to the car's cost, according to Ford Motor Co., which conducted an advertising campaign against the air bag and took its case to court.

It was the fourth time that the government had pushed back the effective date for a safety standard requiring that a driver or passenger must be able to survive a front end crash at 30 m.p.h.

In announcing the two-year postponement in this "passive restraint" standard, Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe, said these must now be installed in front seat and back on cars produced after Aug. 15, 1975. That is the starting date for production of the 1976 models.

Not Sole Method

The air bag is not the only method capable of meeting the passive restraint system, but observers agree it is the most likely to be installed. Automakers could use heavy interior padding to meet the standard.

The locking system that Volpe ordered is design to force drivers and passengers to use the seat belts that have been mandatory on cars since 1968.

Studies show that fewer than 30% of the nation's drivers use belts although the government says they are effective in preventing death and injury in accidents.

Under the regulation, an automobile could not be started if the seat belts were not locked and a sensing device in the car seat would show whether the driver or passenger was in place when they were snapped shut. This is designed to keep passengers from locking the belts and pushing them behind them in the seat.

The regulation requires that if the belts are unlocked once the car is started, a flashing light and buzzer would be activated until the driver re-buckeld the belts.

The belts would be required only in the front seats, Volpe said.

Student Senate At NU Calls For Ombudsman

The student senate at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln says it wants a campus ombudsman.

Senators voted Wednesday to adopt a report from its legal rights committee calling for establishment of the campus post to deal with complaints from both students and faculty members.

Steve Fowler, president of the UNL student body, said students will take the proposal to Interim Chancellor C. Peter Magrath in an attempt to secure university funding for the office.

The legal rights committee has estimated it would cost about $20,000 to fund such an office for a year.

The University's Omaha campus has a full-time ombudsman this year, a position which was formed after a one-year trial at a half-time position.

Island Folk Fleeing Onrushing Ginger

By The Associated Press

Island folk fled to the mainland and disaster relief crews assembled at strategic locations Wednesday as 20-day-old Hurricane Ginger swirled at about 12 miles an hour toward the North Carolina and southern Virginia coasts.

The main brunt of the storm, with winds as high as 90 miles per hour, was expected to hit the coast between Wilmington, N.C., and Virginia Beach, Va., about daybreak, a spokesman for the National Hurricane Center in Miami said.

Ginger's eye was expected to hit the North Carolina coast just north of Wilmington after daybreak. The spokesman, Neil Frank, predicted that the storm would sit over coastal areas with gale force winds for up to 50 hours because it was so large.

In Florida, Ginger was blamed for one drowning in St. Augustine and two young swimmers were missing in the heavy surf off Neptune Beach.

Senate Shoots Down Move To Kill Navy F14

Washington (AP) — The Senate gave lopsided votes of confidence Wednesday to two of the Pentagon's most-criticized weapons projects by refusing to cut funds for the Navy's F14 fighter and the Safeguard missile defense system.

It also agreed to a vote Thursday on the latest effort to force a deadline for total U.S. withdrawal from Indochina.

The votes on the F14 and Safeguard, latest in a string of victories for the Nixon administration on major weapons proposals, appeared to insure approval without major reduction of the $21-billion military procurement bill. Final action is likely next week.

First, by a vote of 61 to 28, the Senate shot down a move by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., to cut $801.6 million for procurement of 48 of the carrier-based F14 planes.

Amendment Rejected

Then, by a 64-21 margin, it rejected an amendment by Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, to cut $639 million from the bill and bar funds for deployment, construction and procurement of the antibalistic missile (ABM). Nebraska GOP Sens. Carl Curtis and Roman Hruska voted with the majority.

Curtis and Hruska also voted with the majority on the F14 issue.

Several longtime arms-control advocates abandoned their opposition to the Safeguard and supported the Nixon administration's position that it is needed as a bargaining chip in strategic arms limitation talks with the Soviet Union.

The defeat of the amendment came after Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., read the Senate a letter from Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, saying "I now have no reservations concerning this program and urge its approval by Congress."

Hebert had sponsored a House amendment to hold up funds pending completion of a Pentagon examination of the program but told the Senate further study has convinced Pentagon officials the work should proceed.

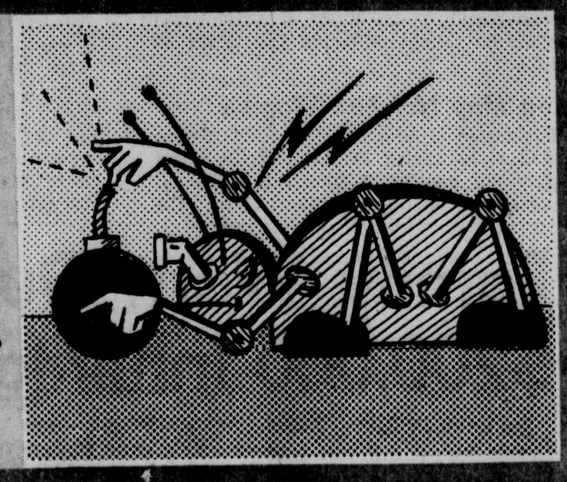

Proxmire said the F14 is "the most expensive fighter plane ever built" and ultimately will cost $15 billion. He called it an "exercise in gold-plated unilateral disarmament" because the program would only produce 309 planes to replace the 1,500 current navy fighters.

United Nations, N.Y. — Canada and Iceland made it clear that they would vote to seat Peking as the sole representative of China at the United Nations. Canadian External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp told the General Assembly in strong terms that it should seat the People's Republic and made it clear his government would oppose the move to retain a seat for Nationalist China.

Rogers Proposes Compromises

Washington — An intensified American effort to find a Middle East settlement began as Secretary of State Rogers put forward some compromise proposals during a two-hour working lunch with Egyptian Foreign Secretary Mahmoud Riad. The conversation is expected to resume at the United Nations after Rogers meets with Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban.

Instead, the department said it would require that seat belts be buckled before a car could be started. (More on Page 1.)

Proxmire To Seek Probe

Washington — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said he planned to ask for an investigation of mismanagement and waste at a Tennessee plant of the Lockheed-Georgia Co. (More on Page 2.)

Nixon May Not Pick Woman

Washington — Administration officials were reported to be saying President Nixon would probably not appoint a woman to either of the vacancies on the Supreme Court. The reason, the officials say, is that Nixon has been unable to find a woman who combines the desired judicial philosophy with a distinguished legal background.

Dock Strike Possible

New York — The International Longshoremen's Association and the New York Shipping Association were reported to be on a collision course that could end in a strike when the union's contract expires at midnight Thursday. The union has said it would not strike until the end of the wage-price freeze if the contract was not changed. But management insists that changes would have to be made in the guaranteed annual income provisions.

Ex-Employe Charges Lockheed With Waste

World News

Washington (UPI) — Henry M. Durham, former employe No. 526,798, confronted a corporate vice president with a $65 bolt Wednesday and accused Lockheer of massive waste and mismangement of the C5A cargo plane contract.

Durham, who said he quit his job in disgust as a production engineer at Lockheed-Georgia's C5A plant in Marietta, Ga , told a congressional committee that 42½ tons of valuable steel were left to rust and corrode on outdoor racks, needless expenses were incurred by purchase of hardware at "exorbitant" prices and "thousands of thousands of parts and assemblies were misplaced and left out of the planes."

The C5A program has exceeded its original cost estimates by $2 billion. The Air Force jet transport is the world's largest aircraft.

Durham said he tried to correct the situation but "I was told to shut up."

Lockheed-Georgia executive vice president H. Lee Poore defended his company.

'We're Not Perfect'

"We are only people," he said. ". . . And as other people in other endeavors, we are not perfect."

Poore contended that despite the problems with plane's escalating costs, the C5A is working and is regarded as "a great bird" by the pilots who fly it and a "dream to service" by the mechanics who work on it.

Durham, however, contended that the assembly of the plane was "chaos."

Aircraft would arrive at the flight line as "a virtual shell, missing thousands and thousands of parts and assemblies," he said, and Lockheed was unable to determine which parts were missing because installation papers had been deliberately falsified.

Poore denied it. "We neither flew nor delivered any airplanes configured in any way to detract from required quality standards," he said.

Durham reached into a cardboard filing cabinet at his side and pulled out a package of rust-covered drill bits that he said had been stored outdoors in a rain barrel along with other expensive equipment.

And he produced a four-inch steel rod that he said Lockheed had bought for $25 — many times its actual value — then casually discarded.

"That type of thing just stuck in my craw," he said.

"Here is a standard aircraft bolt," he said, reaching into a plastic bag to remove a shiny, three-inch object.

"It is a common bolt that probably would cost $2 or $3. Lockheed bought four of these bolts for $65 each."

Poore said he could not estimate their value. "I don't know whether its platinum or titanium," he said.

Poore, watching Durham dip into his briefcase for nuts and bolts and pieces of metal, said, "It seems to me our security is worse than I thought it was. I hope we don't have too much of this material floating around Washington."

"I'll be glad to give them back to you," former employe No. 526,798 replied.

Family Worn Out Spending $200,000 Inheritance Fast

San Pedro, Calif. (AP) — Jolene Gearin says she was poor before she inherited $200,000 four years ago. Now she's poor again and cheerfully admits, "We blew it."

Mrs. Gearin was living in a $75-a-month apartment when she learned she would inherit $200,000 from the estate of her father, Chester Hanson. With her husband, Leonard, a merchant marine seaman, and their four children, she waited through two years of court action for the money. Then taxes took part of it.

"But when it came, it really wore us out spending it," she recalls. "We were just exhausted. We could spend it fast enough."

Where did the money go?

"We bought cars and motorcycles for the boys, and a truck, and a $2,000 hi-fi . . . and clothes, and we put a down payment on a house, and the girls and I had all our teeth capped, and I had my breasts lifted. . .

"We paid cash for everything. . ."

Lessons learned? "You can sure waste a lot of money on cars, and the stock market is a bad investment," Mrs. Gearin said.

Lasting effects? "When we found out about the money, it brought the family together. It was the first time in our lives that we really worked and planned together. . .

Her son Leonard Jr. had enough left from the inheritance to go into the furniture business in Australia. Fred, 18, is studying electronics at a vocational school. Mary, 21, is studying education at the College of the Siskiyou in Northern California. Jean, 26, is in a real estate school.

Monsanto Pledges To Quit Selling PCB To Food Plants

Washington (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration said Wednesday that the nation's only producer of the industrial chemical known as PCB had promised to stop selling the possibly hazardous compound to food and feed plants.

FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards also said that National Cash Register Co has discontinued use of PCB in the manufacture of carbonless carbon paper, the primary source of PCB contaminants found in recycled paper food packaging.

PCBs, short for polychlorinated biphenyls, are chemicals made solely by Mansanto Chemical Co. and are widely used in machinery.

Federal Grand Jury Indicts Eight In Scheme To Defraud Government

By EMUND GLEN JOHNSON

Houston (UPI) — A federal grand jury Wednesday indicted eight men, including former bank examiners, on charges of scheming with Houston financier Frank W. Sharp to defraud the government.

The conspiracy, the indictments said, was based on a series of loans made to the bank examiners by corporations controlled by Sharp, president of Sharpstown State Bank and central figure in a stock fraud scandal.

The indictments charged that the loans defrauded the "United States by depriving the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. of its right to have the bank examined honestly, fairly and free from corruption." The grand jury said Sharp and those indicted schemed to protect the bank from a surprise examination of its records.

The grand jury said the men — two former FDIC examiners, two former Texas bank examiners, a real estate investor and three former officers of the Sharpstown State Bank — misapplied funds of the bank, falsified records and accepted or made about $105,000 in illegal loans to the examiners.

Granted Immunity

Sharp was granted immunity from criminal prosecution in exchange for his testimony before state and federal grand juries. Some politicians charged the immunity was an effort by the U.S. Justice Department to protect Sharp's former legal counsel, Will Wilson, former Texas attorney general and now head of the Justice Department's criminal division.

Wilson has denied any of his actions were illegal.

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission first uncovered the stock scandal last January by filing a civil suit in Dallas charging that Sharp and 27 other persons and corporations illegally manipulated the price of unregistered stock. Then, the SEC said, profits from the stock were made available to high public officials in Texas in exchange for favorable action in two banking bills which would have eliminated federal supervision of Sharp's Bank.

A County grand jury in Austin, Tex., has indicted Texas House Speaker Gus F. Mutscher, Rep. Tommy Shannon, D-Fort Worth, and a Mutscher aide on charges of conspiracy to accept a bribe from Sharp. John Osorio, former state insurance commissioner, was indicted for making a false statement to the banking board while he was president of National Bankers Life Insurance Corp., the firm whose stock was illegally sold and manipulated.

Indicted Wednesday in Houston were Ted Bristol and John T. Knight, former FDIC examiners; John B. Hooper and Welton Adler, former state examiners; Douglas N. Lane, Herman Nelms, and Carl Lundquist, all former vice presidents of the Sharpstown bank, and Charles L. Henke, a Houston real estate investor.

U. S. District Judge Woodrow Seals issued bench warrants for the eight men and set $5,000 bonds for each.

Each of the four indictments said the loans were made with inadequate collateral, with false signatures and false bank ledger entries, reports and records.

"In return for these loans and other gratuities, Lane and Nelms would be notified in advance when the bank was to be examined," one indictment said. Knight and Adler were accused of giving the bank advance notice of an impending examination.

Charge Of Undue Influence Is Groundless—Proxmire

Washington (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., Wednesday declared groundless a Navy official's accusation that four powerful Louisiana Congress members used undue political influence in an attempt to force a favorable claim settlement for a firm in their state.

Promire said the situation described Tuesday by Gordon Rule, a Navy claims control official, appeared to be only a normal and routine congressional request for speedier action by a government agency.

As Proxmire made his comment in a session of the Joint Economic Committee one of the legislators named by Rule-Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the Sente Finance Committee—rose on the Senate floor to demand "a most contrite apology."

"No improper influence was used," Long declared, stating it is obvious the Navy owes his constituent—the Avondale Corp.—"a large amount of money."

Proxmire read into his committee's record a letter from Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-L.A., another of those named by Rule, stating that any request he made of the Navy was only for the purpose of speeding action, not to dictate the terms of settlement.

In his testimony Rule had been insistent that Long and Ellender, teamed up with Louisiana Reps. Hale Boggs and F. Edward Hebert, both Democrats, exercised enormous pressure on Navy officials.

Ellender is president pro tem of the Senate and chairman of the Appropriations Committee. Long heads the Finance Committee. Boggs and Hebert are, respectively, the House majority leader and the chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

Angus Breeding Firm Moving To Minatare

. . . Colossal Cattle Acquires Shalco Company

Minatare (AP) — W. F. "Bill" Smith has announced the Colossal Cattle Company, a new Angus breeding firm, has acquired the total assests — reported at about $25 million — of Shalco Land and Cattle Company headquartered in Minatare.

Smith, of Minatare, and the former president and directing partner of Shalco, is the president of the corporation; Dave Canning of Staunton, Va., is the board chairman and the third principal is Weir Stewart, Farmington, Conn., a director of Colossal and an investment banker who is one-third owner of Canadian Colossal, the million dollar Angus bull recently brought to Minatare by the new company.

Smith said also involved in the transaction are a 40,000 head feedlot, headquarters offices and sale and support facilities at Minatare and complete breeding, grazing and sale facilities at Sugar Loaf Farm near Staunton.

Both included a total of 50,000 acres in Nebraska, Texas and Virginia.

The acreage supports 12,000 registered Angus cattle and in addition, herds are maintained at the Stampede Cattle Station, Stavely, Alberta, Canada, and the Floyd Meyers and Son Farm at Twin Valley, Minn.

The Colossal Cattle Company will be dedicated to perpetuating, improving and intensifying the famous Canadian Colossal line," Smith observed in making the announcement.

The president of the new corporation also announced the first sale of Colossal Cattle Company will be held at Sugar Loaf Farm in Virginia on Friday, Nov. 5, when 50 sons from Canadian Colossal plus 15 daughters will be offered to the public

Included in the sale is the entire show string being prepared for the 1971-72 show season.

Colossal's sons and daughters, bred, owned and shown by Shalco during the last two years have won 95 championship at major livestock shows in North America, Smith said.

He said he carefully selected the Sand Hills area of western Nebraska for his base of operations. "Forty-two per cent of America's feed cows are in the seven states surrounding Nebraska, a ready-made prime bull market," Smith commented, "and Minatare is in a top feed producing area."

The reason he picked Minatare, Smith stated, was his two year study of the 30,000-acre Dale Reding ranch and herd, at Minatare, which resulted in his choosing it as Shalco's home base.

Improved Telephone Service Main Concern Of Ranchers

North Platte (AP) — Witnesses at the State Railway Commission hearing Wednesday indicated they are not directly opposed to Northwestern Bell Telephone Company's proposed rate increase if telephone service improves.

The hearing was one of a series being held throughout Nebraska on the proposed 25% increase in rates. The rate increase would amount to an estimated $13.5 million annually.

Two North Platte ranchers, Allen Madison and Ernest McKain, testified they would not oppose the rate increase if the company would cut down on the number of persons using party lines

"I'm not afraid to pay money if we could get better service," Madison said.

McKain testified that 32 persons use the same eight-party line he used because it includes the school as well as several families.

Eugene Herron, representing the North Platte City Council, asked several questions which were later answered by Howard Core, vice president and general manager of operations for Northwestern Bell.

Herron asked since the last rate increase in 1957 if there has been an increase in the ratio of management to labor force.

Gore answered that in 1957 the ratio was 20% and in 1971 it was 24%.

Responding to another question, Gore said management does not do labor's work except in emergencies. He also said Northwestern Bell is loaning four management persons to New York Telephone Company which is now being struck.

"All Bell companies are asked to provide whatever service they can," Gore said

Two Elm Creek residents, Thomas Neill and Dean Shubert, testified that telephone service in Elm Creek is poor They said the town has no direct dial service and uses operator service for long distance calls.

Angus Breeding Firm Moving To Minatare

. . . Colossal Cattle Acquires Shalco Company

Minatare (AP) — W. F. "Bill" Smith has announced the Colossal Cattle Company, a new Angus breeding firm, has acquired the total assests — reported at about $25 million — of Shalco Land and Cattle Company headquartered in Minatare.

Smith, of Minatare, and the former president and directing partner of Shalco, is the president of the corporation; Dave Canning of Staunton, Va., is the board chairman and the third principal is Weir Stewart, Farmington, Conn., a director of Colossal and an investment banker who is one-third owner of Canadian Colossal, the million dollar Angus bull recently brought to Minatare by the new company.

Smith said also involved in the transaction are a 40,000 head feedlot, headquarters offices and sale and support facilities at Minatare and complete breeding, grazing and sale facilities at Sugar Loaf Farm near Staunton.

Both included a total of 50,000 acres in Nebraska, Texas and Virginia.

The acreage supports 12,000 registered Angus cattle and in addition, herds are maintained at the Stampede Cattle Station, Stavely, Alberta, Canada, and the Floyd Meyers and Son Farm at Twin Valley, Minn.

The Colossal Cattle Company will be dedicated to perpetuating, improving and intensifying the famous Canadian Colossal line," Smith observed in making the announcement.

The president of the new corporation also announced the first sale of Colossal Cattle Company will be held at Sugar Loaf Farm in Virginia on Friday, Nov. 5, when 50 sons from Canadian Colossal plus 15 daughters will be offered to the public.

Included in the sale is the entire show string being prepared for the 1971-72 show season.

Colossal's sons and daughters, bred, owned and shown by Shalco during the last two years have won 95 championship at major livestock shows in North America, Smith said.

He said he carefully selected the Sand Hills area of western Nebraska for his base of operations. "Forty-two per cent of America's feed cows are in the seven states surrounding Nebraska, a ready-made prime bull market," Smith commented, "and Minatare is in a top feed producing area."

The reason he picked Minatare, Smith stated, was his two year study of the 30,000-acre Dale Reding ranch and herd, at Minatare, which resulted in his choosing it as Shalco's home base.

Eight NU Students To Work On GOP Research Projects

Grand Island (UPI) — State Republican Party Chairman Milan Bish of Grand Island announced the launching of research programs involving eight University of Nebraska students.

Bish said the students would be working at state Republican headquarters in Lincoln to get a first hand look at the day to day operation of the party prior to going out in the field for a series of interviews.

The students are Steve Buettow, Fremont; Mark Rubin, Bellevue; Russell Fries, Culbertson; Gordon E. Musch, Omaha; David E. Gardels, Battle Creek; George H. Cook Jr., Omaha; Peter Kernkamp, St. Paul, Minn.; and Jim Johnson, North Bend.

Bish said the activities of the students would be directed by Glen Wilson, executive secretary for the party.

He added the party hopes to benefit from the studies through possible legislation or the formation of new party policies.

Some of the areas to be covered by the students include the movement of youth from the rural to urban areas; demographic study; youth affairs; and senior citizens issue studies.

The program is called "Bridge" and is sponsored by the Hall County Drug Advisory Council. Volunteers will man telephones from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. seven days a week.

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

It was what you might describe as two good days for government the early part of this week. First, the City Council set up a procedure whereby it would meet regularly with the various department heads of local government in an informal educational type of session.

This means that City Council members will become more familiar with the day-to-day operations and problems of the administrative side of government. This could be viewed as a breakdown of our system of government but we do not consider it in this light.

The council could be sitting with department heads in the hopes of taking a more active role in the daily operations of those departments but we don't think so. We think the council is sincerely interested in better understanding the departments with the end of doing a better job for them legislatively.

This is why we think it was not a good idea to remove the mayor as the official head of the City Council. It took the mayor entirely away from his weekly association with the council and weakened the legislative-administrative cooperation that is essential to good government.

City Council meetings with departments will help return the state of cooperation and understanding that we need. It is not a question of who runs what, but of understanding.

Books and experts talk a lot about separation of powers and there is much to be said on the subject, a lot of it of value, but it is only half the ingredient you need for good government. Cooperation between the legislative and executive branches of government is essential if an area is to make progress.

This is obvious even at the federal level when the relationships of the president with Congress are constantly seen as an advantage or disadvantage to the administration and the nation. Each branch has its sphere of sovereignty but there is far more overlapping of interests than sovereignty.

The same thing is seen at the state level. Where would Gov. J. James Exon be with his austerity budget if he had not found a receptive Legislature, especially a very receptive chairman of the Budget Committee?

What will the City Council find as it meets from time to time with the heads of various city agencies? It will find, first of all, a very capable and dedicated staff of people. It will find people with a great desire to give the citizenry of Lincoln the kind of services they want.

They will find people doing a good job on the funds given them by the City Council but with a substantial backlog of things that need to be done but fail to receive financing. They will find, too, some things they may not like so much.

Not all city departments and people are perfect. Not all are doing everything exactly right. Not all make the correct decisions every time and not all will correctly judge each and every need.

But the council will find that tax funds, in general, are not being wasted and that, by and large, a good job is being done in the public sector of things. The experience will undoubtedly leave the council better equipped to deal with financial matters as they are determined in the annual budget sessions.

Cooperation was the keynote of the Tuesday meeting of Lancaster County commissioners. Reports are that a friendly attitude prevailed among commissioners and not one area of conflict was evident.

In the process, commissioners made a number of important determinations. Funds were allocated for three important operations related to sound county government—the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce and Vision 17, each for $5,000 and the Southeast Nebraska Health Planning Council for $6,500.

Also, the county entered into an arrangement for joint purchase through and with the city of various office supply items. It was a commendable and constructive performance by the county board and, hopefully, a sign of the kind of progress that can now be expected in future meetings.

VIRGINIA PAYETTE
Legion Offers Aid To Vet Drug Users

NEW YORK—One of my earliest painful memories is of standing before an American Legion convention in a silly crepe paper "poppy girl" costume, reciting "In Flanders Field, where poppies grow . . ." to a roomful of World War I veterans who hoped I'd make it brief so they could get back to making whoopee.

That was a long time ago. And, ironically, the American Legion is still concentrating on the poppy.

But today it's more than their symbolic flower: it's where heroin comes from. And because of THAT poppy, they're putting on a national drive to help "the kid who brought back a lousy habit from Vietnam."

A lot of folks may still think of Legionnaires as fun-loving, middle-aged terrors (especially if they ever held a convention in your home town), but the same old boys who used to startle pedestrians with cattle prods are tracking down hooked veterans and starting them on the road to a cure.

National Commander Alfred P. Chamie has given this "first priority" rating and ordered all 16,000 posts to make up an "immediate" list of local hospitals, mental health clinics and medical societies where they can take discharged addicts for help.

He doesn't want them to be silent do-gooders, either. The program won't work if nobody knows about it.

"Publicize your efforts aggressively," he urges, "so that, God willing, not one single drug-involved veteran need say: 'There was no one to help me.'"

Other people are trying. President Nixon has named Secretary of State William Rogers to head a cabinet committee on International Narcotics Control. And Dr. Jerome H. Jaffe as his special White House adviser on drugs.

But where the cabinet is working to cut off the supply, and Dr. Jaffe is trying to discover the demand, the American Legion is working on the result: the hooked veteran.

One of the first things a post does when it finds a young man who needs help is to get him into a drug clinic at the nearest Veterans' Administration hospital. By next month there will be 33 of those clinics around the country, and 13 more are in the planning stage.

If there's no VA hospital in the area . . . or there's a waiting period . . . or the . . . veteran turns out to be ineligible for VA treatment, the post signs him up with one of the other community programs available.

The word has gone down: "Turn no one away." One of the reasons Legionnaires will knock on every door is the feeling that whether a veteran kicks the habit or remains an addict depends on what happens when he takes his problem to them.

A casual brush-off, they fear, might send him back to the drug culture for good. And that, says Director E. H. Golembieski, "Would be one of the great tragedies of this difficult war."

Helping disabled veterans has been a pet project of the American Legion for 53 years. But this is a new kind of disability — and the program is too new to have any triumphant success stories.

'Good Heavens! For A Moment I Thought It Was Martha Mitchell!'

'Make Love No. 1'

Some traditionalists among the alumni might not be wild about the plans University of Nebraska student spirit orgnizations have for Homecoming at the Lincoln campus in October. But then, the handwriting has been on the wall concerning traditional homecoming activities for some time.

The NU Corn Cobs and Tassel have set "Make Love No. 1" as the theme for Homecoming 1971. "Love' is Love Library and No. 1 would mean a ranking as the finest library at any of the schools belonging to the Big Eight conference. There will still be some of the traditional highlights that have been associated with NU homecoming festivities. And living units will be encouraged to decorate with some sort of reminder to the faithful that Big Red should wallop its opponent, the University of Kansas Jayhawks.

But the pep organizations are urging that living units abandon the practice of building huge homecoming displays and instead donate the money that would have been spent on the displays to a new Love Library fund that is being established in the University of Nebraska foundation.

Some students have long complained that the opulent, Disney-like displays cost money that could have gone for better purposes and took time away from studies, especially for the freshmen, traditional display-builders. Many people are receptive to the "Make Love No. 1" idea, Corn Cob and Tassels spokesmen say, and faculty leaders are also excited about the possibility that it might create interest in the library across the state. Both students and library officials say that the idea to build library strength hopefully will spread to alumni and other citizens, who have been invited to contribute to the fund.

Whatever will be collected for the Love fund would not be meant as a substitute for the construction money for an addition to Love Library that the university seeks from the Legislature. It has been suggested that the contributions might go for book purchases or small remodeling projects.

The most important part that the Make Love No. 1 campaign can play is in bringing about the recognition that a great university requires a great library. It can serve as a means of relaying support to the Love Library project so that it might be funded in the Legislature.

One Way To Help

People who believe in an individual approach to the problems of society have an opportunity in the coming weeks to prove it. The chance comes their way through the 1972 United Fund drive, an effort to raise more than $1.2 million in this community for a host of civic projects and programs.

It is through the efforts of this drive that the agencies of this area are able to perform the varied social programs that tend to the needs of those who have nowhere else to turn. The poor, the maladjusted and many others are dependent upon the success of this drive if they are to have any future.

Additionally, the United Fund supports many activities which relate directly to the welfare of all citizens. Such things as health care planning, drug treatment, alcoholic rehabilitation and others are not limited to any economic or social group.

The fund drive is the one chance a year given to all the people of the community to contribute to the many agencies that meet the economic, social and other human voids that exist in the lives of countless thousands of people of all ages. This is a way for the community itself and its people to do a job that needs to be done but without turning to government for the answers.

A failure in such an effort as this is an admission that as individuals we do not really have the sense of personal responsibility we like to hold up as the epitome of citizenship. It means that when we talk about our neighbor, we really have no intention of acting the same way.

The fund drive goal this year is, once again, a big one but one whose importance to the community is without question. Lincoln has never yet failed to meet the challenge of this annual drive, a community asset that will be continued if people respond as they need to in the weeks of solicitations that lie ahead.

TOM WICKER
Speculation On Nixon Handling Of Appointments; Baseball Senators Leave Behind Those Who Care

WASHINGTON — Everybody is commenting on the unusual opportunity given to President Nixon by the need to appoint two Supreme Court justices. He can shape the direction of the court for a generation, they say, but that's not the half of it.

The key to the real possibilities lies in the speculation that Nixon might name Vice President Agnew to one of these splendid jobs. Maybe this should not be taken lightly, Agnew's legal attainments aside; and anyway, from the people who gave you G. Harrold Carswell, you wouldn't expect Learned Hand.

In the first place, Agnew meets two of Nixon's major specifications; he's conservative enough, and while Maryland is not precisely a southern state, the vice president is one of the main ornaments of the southern strategy. In the second place, since the hot rumor is that Nixon wants a fresh face with him on the ticket next year, the Supreme Court would be just the right place to dump Agnew without wounding his dignity or rousing up his right-wing fans.

Then things really get interesting. The new 25th Amendment to the Constitution provides that if "there is a vacancy in the office of the vice president, the president shall nominate a vice president who shall take office upon confirmation by a majority vote of both houses of Congress."

Don't forget, there are TWO spots open on the Supreme Court. Add that fact to the 25th Amendment and Nixon could revamp the whole team—give the administration a brand new image and probably sew up the election a year in advance.

Here's a possible scenario:

Agnew to the Supreme Court. Secretary of State Rogers to the Supreme Court. Secretary of the Treasury Connally to the vice presidency (he wouldn't formally turn Republican until after he's confirmed by the Democratic majority in both houses, thus carrying Texas and mollifying Japan. This leaves two choice cabinet openings at $40,000 a year.

Nixon would put Gov. Nelson Rockefeller in as secretary of state, thus grafting the Eastern Establishment onto the administration. This would leave Treasury open, and the smart money has it that the President would bring in Wilbur D. Mills (that southern strategy again), ridding himself of a stumbling block on the Hill while getting another conservative Democrat in the cabinet to replace Connally.

Asked to comment on these possibilities, informed sources at the White House said, "Watch what we do, not what we say."

The other big story in this beleaguered city, which has no vote and no home rule, is that suddenly it doesn't even have a baeball team. After 71 years of being first in war, first in peace, and last in the American League, Washington now has only its 100 real senators, none of whom can hit the curve ball or go from first to third on a grounder.

That is not to suggest that any of the baseball Senators could, either. Nevertheless, they were certified big league by the arcaine laws of baseball, and their departure is a blow to the faithful, who in the years 1969-70 compiled a better attendance record than eight other major league cities, despite the highest admission prices in any city.

The move to Texas was also symbolic of how and why things are all too often done these days. Like corporations from Lockheed to the Pen Central, the Sentors were miserably mismanaged, on the field and off, by an arrogant and untouchable ownership. So they were bailed out and moved to Texas in a straight money grab, after various deceits and amid a barrage of propaganda as fraudulent as one of those oil company ads that would have you believe the petroleum industry really cares about the environment.

The franchise shift was an action taken behind closed doors, by 12 unaccountable men, none of whom lives in Washington or cares about it, and without the faintest regard for consumers of even the shoddy product recently offered here and now to be palmed off on Texas.

It was a move out of the black inner city and into the white suburbs of Dallas and Fort Worth, and since the new home of the Senators — or Cowboys, or whatever they are — will be something called Turnpike Stadium, it was also a plunge into the sad mobility culture of this rootless automobile age. Finally, the main attraction in Texas seems to have been a fat television contract, reflecting the overwhelming role the flickering tube now plays in American life.

Of course the history books won't record this small matter, but some people here did care, and never will again, and that, too, is the way things go.

MARQUIS CHILDS
Phantoms For Israel Nixed

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State William P. Rogers meeting with the foreign ministers of Israel and the Aarab stats in New York will present a position sure to arouse familiar passions. Despte reports to the contrary, the present intention is to hold firm against repeaed Isralai requests for a number of Phantom fighter-bombers.

The decision is based on the conviction that the balance of military power contrinues to be in Israel's favor for all the extensive weaponry the Soviet Union has given Egypt. The latest supersonic fighters and the most advanced ground-to-air defensive missiles are part of the weaponry, along with 15,000 Soviet technicians and pilots.

Within the State Department, the words of Israel's own leaders are taken to support the conviction. In June Prime Minister Golda Meir told the Knesset that "during the past year the United States has expressed in deeds its understanding of the need to maintain the military balance.

An article of faith in the present determination to leave the arms balance unchanged is that Egypt's Prsident Anwar El-Sadat means peace. He wants to improve the lot of his own people. Therefore, military adventures and even bigger military spending are ruled out. If the Sadat rhetoric is now and then bellicose, policy-makers write it off as just that — rhetoric for the Arab world.

Back of the Rogers stand at the U.N. is the belief there is still a chance for an interim settlement that will see the opening of the Suez Canal. This would be taken by both sides as a first step toward a final compromise agreement. The frank appraisal is that the odds are against it. But, with the fuel for still another war piled up in the Middle East, hope persists.

The present decision on the Phantoms will increasingly get into domstic politics as 1972 draws nearer. Support for Israel has long been a political staple with the Democrats traditionally pushing for all-out help. A great deal of Democratic campaign money comes from wealthy Jews on the Liberal-Democratic side of the fence.

In Sen. Henry (Scoop) Jackson's presidential campaign, on the verge of public avowal, championship of Israel is a major theme. He relates this to the threat of the Soviet Union and the big Russian military buildup in the Mediterranean. The senator proposes a $500 million credit to Israel to buy arms.

An objective look at Rogers' bargaining position, as he tries once again in face-to-face confronations to bring off the peace initiative, raises serious doubts. How do you bargain in such a tough game without impressive bargaining counters? The Phantoms could conceivably be such a counter.

With so much at stake, Rogers might say to Israel, yes, we will let you have the Phantoms if you accept the terms of an interim settlement. Let the Egyptians cross the canal with flags flying and take a position whether it be "X" or "Y" yards or miles on the Israeli-held side. And there is no point in arguing about the distance the Egyptians would move, since we propose to put a neutral force between the two sides.

Offering nothing tangible, Rogers is asking the Israelis to give up what they have—part of what they won in the six-day war in 1967—without a quid pro quo. That is not bargaining. It is a wistful belief that virtue must triumph where it has never triumphed before.

Positions are hardening. By unanimous vote of the U.N. Security Council, including the United States and the Soviet Union, Israel was called on to change policies on housing and population that confirm Israeli expansion in the old city of Jerusalem united by the triumph over Jordan in the 1967 war. Israel promptly let it be known that it would ignore such a demand that included a call for a U.N. investigative mission.

No one would deny Rogers an "E" for effort. If he is given one of the vacancies on the Supreme Court, as is rumored, his successor will confront a perilous Middle East deadlock. deadlock.

LA VERNA HASSLER
Patchwork Prairie Country

The Farmer started to sow wheat today after deciding he could wait no longer. He did have faith that it was going to rain and wanted it to rain before he put the wheat into the ground. But as time passed, he knew he had to begin to get some of the jobs out of the way in preparation for the harvest of the milo crop. Things have a way of piling up on the farm if he doesn't keep going from one task to the other.

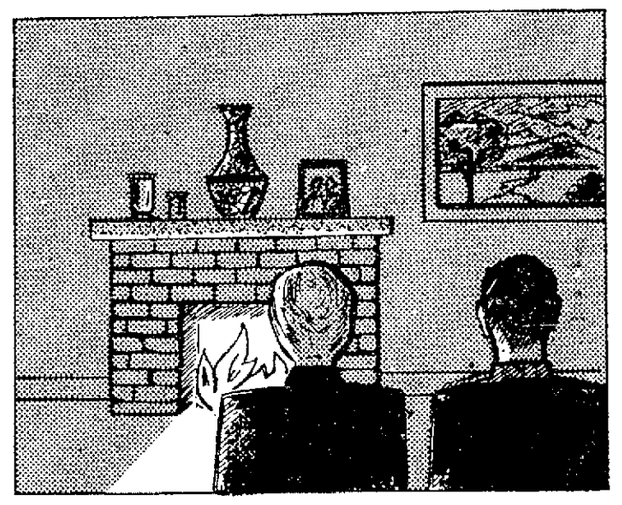

The weatherman tells of possible showers and strong north winds for this afternoon. The high wind we don't need for there is grave concern that the milo will go down making it twice as difficult to cut.

Well, whether it rains or not, the last day of summer is as good a time as any to get the wheat drilled into the ground and prepare for something else that hold more promise . . . like going fishing. Yet, on second thought, I have heard of several who have done that and couldn't catch any fish.

☆ ☆ ☆

When the autumnal equinox begins, I am aware of the still small voice of autumn's hush." The crickets in the grass sing into the night and the locusts hum from the trees. The sparrows have started to fly into the cedar trees early in the evening with a good-night chorus repeated over and over again.

Silently the milkweed floss drifts with the wind and slowly the orange cast comes to the berries of the bittersweet. The sumac blaze quietly in a glare of brilliant red. The last of the big butterflies; the morning cloaks, swallowtails and monarchs glide on velvet wings as they go from one flower to another, seeking the last bit of nectar from late-blooming flowers. Now and then a bee drones by as if it doesn't really care whether it gets to the hive with another bit of honey. Here and there a leaf drifts down to lay the first cushion for the brilliant autumn carpet later in the season but there is scarcely a sound as it comes to rest. The blue-tinged summer sky makes a backdrop for a fleecy cloud or two that sails silently overhead. They are like lost sheep that have strayed from the fold gamboling hither and yon in their newfound freedom.

I tell myself that now is the time to be looking for dry weeds and seeds pods for a winter bouquet. I have seen plume grass swaying in the wind and know where cattails stand in the swamp but so far I have not felt quite so adventuresome as to go hiking off into the distance to gather them. I suppose my intentions will come to naught as they have every fall.

Now that the evenings have started to darken much earlier, it is time to think of some good fireside hobbies to fill the long winter evenings that are looming in the not too distant future.

I'm not artistically inclined so I can't paint a picture. I cannot sing so there is no aria I can warble or new pop tune to memorize. I'm all thumbs so I can't learn to play the guitar. None of my ancestral grandmothers was in the line of chorus girls so I am certain I cannot dance. I doubt if I could learn to play bridge because I can't remember where I laid my glasses five minutes ago. I can't make fudge candy or popcorn because they are too fattening so testing candy recipes is out. I know of no grand dame of other generations who was a beauty in the Ziegfeld Follies so I cannot spend hours applying various beauty aids to enhance my face . . . it being a Plain Jane. At times I have thought of learning to knit but I often seem to have a thumb for every finger so I would no doubt bumble the job.

Looking over the list, it seems there is little I can accomplish but strange at it seems, I am happy. So long as there is a warm fire and a soft glow of light and The Farmer in the companion chair, I have the makings for contentment. I can talk and any woman who can do that knows that is a special kind of hobby; or perhaps I should say second nature. Anyway, it can be made into a full-time job.

'Make Love No. 1'

Some traditionalists among the alumni might not be wild about the plans University of Nebraska student spirit orgnizations have for Homecoming at the Lincoln campus in October. But then, the handwriting has been on the wall concerning traditional homecoming activities for some time.

The NU Corn Cobs and Tassel have set "Make Love No. 1" as the theme for Homecoming 1971. "Love' is Love Library and No. 1 woull mean a ranking as the finest library at any of the schools belonging to the Big Eight conference. There will still be some of the traditional highlights that have been associated with NU homecoming festivities. And living units will be encouraged to decorate with some sort of reminder to the faithful that Big Red should wallop its opponent, the University of Kansas Jayhawks.

But the pep organizations are urging that living units abandon the practice of building huge homecoming displays and instead donate the money that would have been spent on the displays to a new Love Library fund that is being established in the University of Nebraska foundation.

Some students have long complained that the opulent, Disney-like displays cost money that could have gone for better purposes and took time away from studies, especially for the freshmen, traditional display-builders. Many people are receptive to the "Make Love No. 1" idea, Corn Cob and Tassels spokesmen say, and faculty leaders are also excited about the possibility that it might create interest in the library across the state. Both students and library officials say that the idea to build library strength hopefully will spread to alumni and other citizens, who have been invited to contribute to the fund.

Whatever will be collected for the Love fund would not be meant as a substitute for the construction money for an addition to Love Library that the university seeks from the Legislature. It has been suggested that the contributions might go for book purchases or small remodeling projects.

The most important part that the Make Love No. 1 campaign can play is in bringing about the recognition that a great university requires a great library. It can serve as a means of relaying support to the Love Library project so that it might be funded in the Legislature.

One Way To Help

People who believe in an individual approach to the problems of society have an opportunity in the coming weeks to prove it. The chance comes their way through the 1972 United Fund drive, an effort to raise more than $1.2 million in this community for a host of civic projects and programs.

It is through the efforts of this drive that the agencies of this area are able to perform the varied social programs that tend to the needs of those who have nowhere else to turn. The poor, the maladjusted and many others are dependent upon the success of this drive if they are to have any future.

Additionally, the United Fund supports many activities which relate directly to the welfare of all citizens. Such things as health care planning, drug treatment, alcoholic rehabilitation and others are not limited to any economic or social group.

The fund drive is the one chance a year given to all the people of the community to contribute to the many agencies that meet the economic, social and other human voids that exist in the lives of countless thousands of people of all ages. This is a way for the community itself and its people to do a job that needs to be done but without turning to government for the answers.

A failure in such an effort as this is an admission that as individuals we do not really have the sense of personal responsibility we like to hold up as the epitome of citizenship. It means that when we talk about our neighbor, we really have no intention of acting the same way.

The fund drive goal this year is, once again, a big one but one whose importance to the community is without question. Lincoln has never yet failed to meet the challenge of this annual drive, a community asset that will be continued if people respond as they need to in the weeks of solicitations that lie ahead.

Phantoms For Israel Nixed

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State William P. Rogers meeting with the foreign ministers of Israel and the Aarab stats in New York will present a position sure to arouse familiar passions. Despte reports to the contrary, the present intention is to hold firm against repeaed Isralai requests for a number of Phantom fighter-bombers.

The decision is based on the conviction that the balance of military power contrinues to be in Israel's favor for all the extensive weaponry the Soviet Union has given Egypt. The latest supersonic fighters and the most advanced ground-to-air defensive missiles are part of the weaponry, along with 15,000 Soviet technicians and pilots.

Within the State Department, the words of Israel's own leaders are taken to support the conviction. In June Prime Minister Golda Meir told the Knesset that "during the past year the United States has expressed in deeds its understanding of the need to maintain the military balance.

An article of faith in the present determination to leave the arms balance unchanged is that Egypt's Prsident Anwar El-Sadat means peace. He wants to improve the lot of his own people. Therefore, military adventures and even bigger military spending are ruled out. If the Sadat rhetoric is now and then bellicose, policy-makers write it off as just that — rhetoric for the Arab world.

Back of the Rogers stand at the U.N. is the belief there is still a chance for an interim settlement that will see the opening of the Suez Canal. This would be taken by both sides as a first step toward a final compromise agreement. The frank appraisal is that the odds are against it. But, with the fuel for still another war piled up in the Middle East, hope persists.

The present decision on the Phantoms will increasingly get into domstic politics as 1972 draws nearer. Support for Israel has long been a political staple with the Democrats traditionally pushing for all-out help. A great deal of Democratic campaign money comes from wealthy Jews on the Liberal-Democratic side of the fence.

In Sen. Henry (Scoop) Jackson's presidential campaign, on the verge of public avowal, championship of Israel is a major theme. He relates this to the threat of the Soviet Union and the big Russian military buildup in the Mediterranean. The senator proposes a $500 million credit to Israel to buy arms.

An objective look at Rogers' bargaining position, as he tries once again in face-to-face confronations to bring off the peace initiative, raises serious doubts. How do you bargain in such a tough game without impressive bargaining counters? The Phantoms could conceivably be such a counter.

With so much at stake, Rogers might say to Israel, yes, we will let you have the Phantoms if you accept the terms of an interim settlement. Let the Egyptians cross the canal with flags flying and take a position whether it be "X" or "Y" yards or miles on the Israeli-held side. And there is no point in arguing about the distance the Egyptians would move, since we propose to put a neutral force between the two sides.

Offering nothing tangible, Rogers is asking the Israelis to give up what they have—part of what they won in the six-day war in 1967—without a quid pro quo. That is not bargaining. It is a wistful belief that virtue must triumph where it has never triumphed before.

Positions are hardening. By unanimous vote of the U.N. Security Council, including the United States and the Soviet Union, Israel was called on to change policies on housing and population that confirm Israeli expansion in the old city of Jerusalem united by the triumph over Jordan in the 1967 war. Israel promptly let it be known that it would ignore such a demand that included a call for a U.N. investigative mission.

No one would deny Rogers an "E" for effort. If he is given one of the vacancies on the Supreme Court, as is rumored, his successor will confront a perilous Middle East deadlock. deadlock.

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

The Farmer started to sow wheat today after deciding he could wait no longer. He did have faith that it was going to rain and wanted it to rain before he put the wheat into the ground. But as time passed, he knew he had to begin to get some of the jobs out of the way in preparation for the harvest of the milo crop. Things have a way of piling up on the farm if he doesn't keep going from one task to the other.

The weatherman tells of possible showers and strong north winds for this afternoon. The high wind we don't need for there is grave concern that the milo will go down making it twice as difficult to cut.

Well, whether it rains or not, the last day of summer is as good a time as any to get the wheat drilled into the ground and prepare for something else that hold more promise . . . like going fishing. Yet, on second thought, I have heard of several who have done that and couldn't catch any fish.

When the autumnal equinox begins, I am aware of the still small voice of autumn's hush." The crickets in the grass sing into the night and the locusts hum from the trees. The sparrows have started to fly into the cedar trees early in the evening with a good-night chorus repeated over and over again.

Silently the milkweed floss drifts with the wind and slowly the orange cast comes to the berries of the bittersweet. The sumac blaze quietly in a glare of brilliant red. The last of the big butterflies; the morning cloaks, swallowtails and monarchs glide on velvet wings as they go from one flower to another, seeking the last bit of nectar from late-blooming flowers. Now and then a bee drones by as if it doesn't really care whether it gets to the hive with another bit of honey. Here and there a leaf drifts down to lay the first cushion for the brilliant autumn carpet later in the season but there is scarcely a sound as it comes to rest. The blue-tinged summer sky makes a backdrop for a fleecy cloud or two that sails silently overhead. They are like lost sheep that have strayed from the fold gamboling hither and yon in their newfound freedom.

I tell myself that now is the time to be looking for dry weeds and seeds pods for a winter bouquet. I have seen plume grass swaying in the wind and know where cattails stand in the swamp but so far I have not felt quite so adventuresome as to go hiking off into the distance to gather them. I suppose my intentions will come to naught as they have every fall.

Now that the evenings have started to darken much earlier, it is time to think of some good fireside hobbies to fill the long winter evenings that are looming in the not too distant future.

I'm not artistically inclined so I can't paint a picture. I cannot sing so there is no aria I can warble or new pop tune to memorize. I'm all thumbs so I can't learn to play the guitar. None of my ancestral grandmothers was in the line of chorus girls so I am certain I cannot dance. I doubt if I could learn to play bridge because I can't remember where I laid my glasses five minutes ago. I can't make fudge candy or popcorn because they are too fattening so testing candy recipes is out. I know of no grand dame of other generations who was a beauty in the Ziegfeld Follies so I cannot spend hours applying various beauty aids to enhance my face . . . it being a Plain Jane. At times I have thought of learning to knit but I often seem to have a thumb for every finger so I would no doubt bumble the job.

Looking over the list, it seems there is little I can accomplish but strange at it seems, I am happy. So long as there is a warm fire and a soft glow of light and The Farmer in the companion chair, I have the makings for contentment. I can talk and any woman who can do that knows that is a special kind of hobby or perhaps I should say second nature. Anyway, it can be made into a full-time job.

Legion Offers Aid To Vet Drug Users

NEW YORK—One of my earliest painful memories is of standing before an American Legion convention in a silly crepe paper "poppy girl" costume, reciting "In Flanders Field, where poppies grow . . ." to a roomful of World War I veterans who hoped I'd make it brief so they could get back to making whoopee.

That was a long time ago. And, ironically, the American Legion is still concentrating on the poppy.

But today it's more than their symbolic flower: it's where heroin comes from. And because of THAT poppy, they're putting on a national drive to help "the kid who brought back a lousy habit from Vietnam."

A lot of folks may still think of Legionnaires as fun-loving, middle-aged terrors (especially if they ever held a convention in your home town), but the same old boys who used to startle pedestrians with cattle prods are tracking down hooked veterans and starting them on the road to a cure.

National Commander Alfred P. Chamie has given this "first priority" rating and ordered all 16,000 posts to make up an "immediate" list of local hospitals, mental health clinics and medical societies where they can take discharged addicts for help.

He doesn't want them to be silent do-gooders, either. The program won't work if nobody knows about it.

"Publicize your efforts aggressively," he urges, "so that, God willing, not one single drug-involved veteran need say: 'There was no one to help me.'"

Other people are trying. President Nixon has named Secretary of State William Rogers to head a cabinet committee on International Narcotics Control. And Dr. Jerome H. Jaffe as his special White House adviser on drugs.

But where the cabinet is working to cut off the supply, and Dr. Jaffe is trying to discover the demand, the American Legion is working on the result: the hooked veteran.

One of the first things a post does when it finds a young man who needs help is to get him into a drug clinic at the nearest Veterans' Administration hospital. By next month there will be 33 of those clinics around the country, and 13 more are in the planning stage.

If there's no VA hospital in the area . . . or there's a waiting period . . . or the . . . veteran turns out to be ineligible for VA treatment, the post signs him up with one of the other community programs available.

The word has gone down: "Turn no one away." One of the reasons Legionnaires will knock on every door is the feeling that whether a veteran kicks the habit or remains an addict depends on what happens when he takes his problem to them.

A casual brush-off, they fear, might send him back to the drug culture for good. And that, says Director E. H. Golembieski, "Would be one of the great tragedies of this difficult war."

Helping disabled veterans has been a pet project of the American Legion for 53 years. But this is a new kind of disability — and the program is too new to have any triumphant success stories.

Speculation On Nixon Handling Of Appointments; Baseball Senators Leave Behind Those Who Care

WASHINGTON — Everybody is commenting on the unusual opportunity given to President Nixon by the need to appoint two Supreme Court justices. He can shape the direction of the court for a generation, they say, but that's not the half of it.

The key to the real possibilities lies in the speculation that Nixon might name Vice President Agnew to one of these splendid jobs. Maybe this should not be taken lightly, Agnew's legal attainments aside; and anyway, from the people who gave you G. Harrold Carswell, you wouldn't expect Learned Hand.

In the first place, Agnew meets two of Nixon's major specifications; he's conservative enough, and while Maryland is not precisely a southern state, the vice president is one of the main ornaments of the southern strategy. In the second place, since the hot rumor is that Nixon wants a fresh face with him on the ticket next year, the Supreme Court would be just the right place to dump Agnew without wounding his dignity or rousing up his right-wing fans.

Then things really get interesting. The new 25th Amendment to the Constitution provides that if "there is a vacancy in the office of the vice president, the president shall nominate a vice president who shall take office upon confirmation by a majority vote of both houses of Congress."

Don't forget, there are TWO spots open on the Supreme Court. Add that fact to the 25th Amendment and Nixon could revamp the whole team—give the administration a brand new image and probably sew up the election a year in advance.

Here's a possible scenario:

Agnew to the Supreme Court. Secretary of State Rogers to the Supreme Court. Secretary of the Treasury Connally to the vice presidency (he wouldn't formally turn Republican until after he's confirmed by the Democratic majority in both houses, thus carrying Texas and mollifying Japan. This leaves two choice cabinet openings at $40,000 a year.

Nixon would put Gov. Nelson Rockefeller in as secretary of state, thus grafting the Eastern Establishment onto the administration. This would leave Treasury open, and the smart money has it that the President would bring in Wilbur D. Mills (that southern strategy again), ridding himself of a stumbling block on the Hill while getting another conservative Democrat in the cabinet to replace Connally.

Asked to comment on these possibilities, informed sources at the White House said, "Watch what we do, not what we say."

The other big story in this beleaguered city, which has no vote and no home rule, is that suddenly it doesn't even have a baeball team. After 71 years of being first in war, first in peace, and last in the American League, Washington now has only its 100 real senators, none of whom can hit the curve ball or go from first to third on a grounder.

That is not to suggest that any of the baseball Senators could, either. Nevertheless, they were certified big league by the arcaine laws of baseball, and their departure is a blow to the faithful, who in the years 1969-70 compiled a better attendance record than eight other major league cities, despite the highest admission prices in any city.

The move to Texas was also symbolic of how and why things are all too often done these days. Like corporations from Lockheed to the Pen Central, the Sentors were miserably mismanaged, on the field and off, by an arrogant and untouchable ownership. So they were bailed out and moved to Texas in a straight money grab, after various deceits and amid a barrage of propaganda as fraudulent as one of those oil company ads that would have you believe the petroleum industry really cares about the environment.

The franchise shift was an action taken behind closed doors, by 12 unaccountable men, none of whom lives in Washington or cares about it, and without the faintest regard for consumers of even the shoddy product recently offered here and now to be palmed off on Texas.

It was a move out of the black inner city and into the white suburbs of Dallas and Fort Worth, and since the new home of the Senators — or Cowboys, or whatever they are — will be something called Turnpike Stadium, it was also a plunge into the sad mobility culture of this rootless automobile age. Finally, the main attraction in Texas seems to have been a fat television contract, reflecting the overwhelming role the flickering tube now plays in American life.

Of course the history books won't record this small matter, but some people here did care, and never will again, and that, too, is the way things go.

Couple Outlines Joys Of Traveling By Bus

By ROBERT PETERSON

Many older people want to see as much of this nation as possible, but don't have a car or are wary about driving long distances. This rules out air travel, since you fly too high and fast to see what's down there on terra firma.

A few railroads are still good, but nearly all rail schedules have been sharply curtailed, and services and facilities are a far cry from what they used to be. So you're left with what can be a splendid alternative — buses.

Bus travel has improved greatly in the past decade. Modern coaches are colorful, clean, and comfortable, have drinking fountains and rest rooms, and give the passenger maximum mileage for his money.

When I took a recent bus trip between New York and Philadelphia, the ride seemed so luxurious that I closed my eyes and imagined I was Aristotle Onassis in an extravagant Rolls Royce being driven to an appointment with my trusty chauffeur at the wheel.

"We were glad to note in a recent column that you think kindly of bus travel for older people," writes Horace M. King of Mansfield, Pa. "We're a middle-aged couple who recently went by bus to a conference in Denver. We took a circle course between our home here aind the Rockies and have never enjoyed a trip more.

"If we had flown, as most of my colleagues did, we could have missed so many things. For instance, we knew very little about Kansas. But we had a wonderful time going through the Sunflower state. We caught glimpses of the University of Kansas at Lawrence, of Kansas State University at Manhattan, and of Eisenhower's boyhood home and the museum at Abilene.

"We stayed overnight in Salina, Kan., where the Bell Hotel put us up in a nice room for only seven dollars and gave us free tomato juice and coffee when we left in the morning.

"The trick is to travel only during the daytime, and to get off the bus in the late afternoon and find a comfortable hotel for a good night's rest. This requires a little pre-planning, but it's quite easy if you have a timetable. We found there are good hotels and motels within walking distance of bus stations in most communities. If you travel light, with just a small bag, you don't have to bother with porters or taxis.

"We allotted four days to get to Denver, and four days to return. If we were retired and could have taken five or six days it would have been even more enjoyable.

"We met many people who were on tours arranged by bus companies and travel agencies. They said schedules had been laid out for them in advance, so they didn't have to do any planning. We might do this if we were older, but at this point we enjoy planning our own trips.

"Some may look down their noses at bus travel. They may recall what buses were like years ago. But we can assure them bus travel has changed dramatically for the better and now offers superior comfort and convenience.

"No, we don't own any bus stocks. This is just an unsolicted paean of praise from the budget director of a small college and his wife who have discovered the satisfactions of traveling by bus."

This Week's Health Tip

Here is a health tip from the Nebraska State Medical Association.

More than half of all Nebraskans have something wrong with their eyes. About 40% wear glasses. Always remember that your sight is one of your most precious possessions.

Most of us do not really know what is good or bad for our eyes. Most physicians agree that there is no such thing as eye strain. But there is eye fatigue, and it usually is not serious. Glasses may improve vision, but do not cure the defect. Nothing, including eating carrots, can cure nearsightedness. Sometimes loss sight is so gradual that you do not realize that it is happening.

Regular visits to the eye doctor for examinations will permit the physican to discover difficulties before they become too severe.

Planners OK Sought For Low Income High-Rise

The City-County Planning Commission will be asked to give immediate final approval for construction of a high-rise apartment building in Havelock for low-income persons, Lincoln Housing Authority Chairman Kenneth King said Wednesday.

The next meeting of the planning commission is set for Oct. 20, but King said a special meeting may be requested. At least three commissioners must agree to call a special meeting.

A joint proposal by Kingery Construction Co. and the architectural firm of Davis, Fenton, Stange and Darling to construct the building for $1,999,100 was given tentative approval by U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) officials in Omaha.

Earlier, the Lincoln Housing Authority selected the same proposal from 15 offers made by 13 bidders, including bids from Minneapolis, Minn., and Lansing, Mich.

HAVELOCK APARTMENTS . . . get tentative HUD approval.

The winning bid includes the price of the land on which the 120-unit high-rise will be built on Morrill Ave., between 60th and 61st Street. The site takes in the entire block except for three residential lots.

Architect Jim Fenton said the eight-story building has been designed so that corridors and other public areas will have maximum natural light. Any resemblance to an institutional plan has been eliminated.

Outdoor features will include a 40-car parking area, vegetable and flower gardens and a park-like recreational area with benches and such activities as shuffleboard and horseshoe games. The site is less than two blocks from Havelock's business district.

There will be 60 efficiency apartments, featuring bedroom alcoves with sliding doors, 55-one-bedroom units, and five two-bedroom apartments.

King said bids for the turnkey project ranged from $1,814,500 to $2,519,300, but the joint proposal of $1,999,100 was selected because it offered more living space for the money.

Policy Aim Is Dispersal Of Minorities

©The New York Times

Washington — The Department of Housing and Urban Development announced Wednesday proposed policy guidelines intended to disperse subsidized housing in a metropolitan area.

The regulations are intended to prevent concentration of minorities in urban "ghettos," to provide that no section is overburdened with low-income families and to see that the residents have ready access to jobs and civic services.

"It is our purpose," said HUD Secretary George Romney in signing the regulations, "to pursue the administration policy of not contributing to minority concentration of housing and to obey the orders of federal courts which have ruled on these questions.'

'Affirmative Action'

At the same time, the department announced additional guidelines defining the "affirmative action" that developers of housing carrying government mortgage guarantees will be required to follow under the 1968 fair housing act.

One requirement is to publicize to minority persons, through minority outlets, the nondiscriminatory availability of the housing.

The regulations on where subsidized projects are to be built are considered by far the more significant of the two, and the most controversial.

While the regulations would not "force integration" on the suburbs, in line with Presdent Nixon's promises, they would vastly increase the pressures to do so.

Last week, HUD ruled, on the basis of its evolving guidelines, that an apartment complex previously approved for the central city of Philadelphia, Fairmont Manor, should have been rejected because it would increase segregation and thus compound social problems.

To Be Published

The guidelines will be published in the Federal Register next Saturday. They are based on regulations drawn during the summer and revised following comments by various interests involved. They will be open for public comment for another 30 days after Oct. 2, but are expected to stand essentially as announced Wednesday.

The regulations are complex and how effective they are in achieving dispersal of subsidized housing depends to a large extent on their administration.

Construction of subsidized housing has increased sharply in the past three years — 500,000 units were built last year — and due to high costs in urban areas there is a larger demand for it than the government can meet. Most of it has been built in the central cities, where most of the poor live.

Essentially, the guidelines would encourage dispersal by giving priority to projects that do not tend to concentrate minorities and provide for low-income families where the jobs and services are.

Niobrara Won't Move To Indian Reservation

Washington (AP) — The Army Corps of Engineers is considering three sites for relocation of flood-threatened Niobrara, Neb., and the Santee-Sioux Indian Reservation, is not one of them, Sen. Carl Curtis' office said Wednesday.

The Nebraska Republican's office revealed the text of a recent letter from the Engineers' Omaha District manager, Col. B. V. Pendergrass, spiking rumors that reservation lands are being considered, although they were under consideration earlier.

Pendergrass said the reservation "will definitely not be further considered" and listed these sites now being studied:

—Directly South and apparently adjacent to the present townsite.

—About one mile southeast of the present townsite.

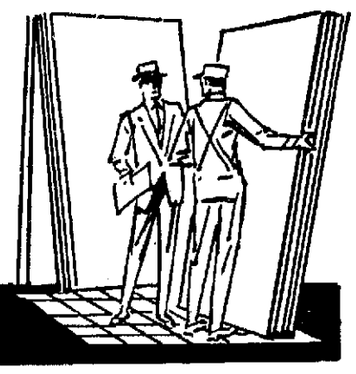

—Directly southwest from the present townsite across the Niobrara River.

Curtis' office explained that the village of Niobrara, with a population of under 1,000, is hampered by continuous seepage into residents' basements of water from Lewis and Clark Lake nearby. The lake was formed by the Gavins Point Dam on the Missouri River.

More Money OKd For School Meals

Washington (AP) — Overriding stronger than expected opposition, the Senate Agriculture Committee voted 8 to 5 Wednesday to require the administration to spend more money to provide a free or reduced-price school meal for every needy child in the country.

The measure, sponsored by Chairman Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., was approved with votes of six Democrats and two Republicans. Opposed were four Republicans and one Democrat.

Talmadge said that unless something is done at once many states will have to curtail their school-lunch programs

Bitter protests came from the states after the Nixon administration announced its regulations for the programs in August.

35c A Meal

It fixed a federal reimbursement rate of 35 cents per meal, explaining this was the maximum possible under the money voted by Congress for the current school year.

State directors said a 45 cent figure is mandatory. This would be the federal contribution under the Talmadge resolution.

The resolution directs the Secretary of Agriculture to use a special fund, derived from import duties on farm products, to make the higher payments.

The total involved is estimated at $150 million to $180 million.

Talmadge said the fund would be reimbursed later from a supplemental appropriations bill.

9 Million Eligible

Sponsors of the resolution estimated that nine million disadvantaged children are eligible for the free or cut price meals but that about two million fewer than this number would receive them under the administration's plans.

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., senior Republican on the panel, said he opposed the resolution because use of the special fund bypasses the regular Appropriations Committees.

In addition, he said, "some of these state school-lunch programs are not all they should be."

Democratic leaders announced the resolution would be debated and voted on by the Senate Friday.

Blast In Bar Kills 2, Wounds 25 In Belfast

Belfast, Northern Ireland (AP) — A bomb wrecked a crowded Belfast bar Wednesday night, killing two persons and wounding 25, as terrorists spurned appeals for peace

Fearing the blast might set off rioting, police and British troops sealed off the area around the Four Step Inn in the Protestant Shankill road district

The bomb went off when the bar was packed with soccer fans on their way home from a game.

Another bomb wrecked a trucking warehouse in the Roman Catholic Lower Falls Road area of the strife-torn capital

Defying appeals by three prime ministers for an end to the violence, terrorists launched other attacks, including sniper fire on troops patrolling the Catholic Ardoyne area, hitting one soldier in the lower abdomen. He as taken to a hospital.

Terrorists also exchanged fire with troops in sporadic clashes, bombed a bus depot and fired a three-foot antitank rocket at an army post, but missed the target. There were no casualties in any of these predawn outbursts.

The renewed violence flared within hours after Prime Ministers Edward Heath of Britain, Jack Lynch of the Irish Republic and Brian Faulkner of Northern Ireland issued a joint appeal for peace in Ulster, official name of the six Northern Irish counties under British rule.

The three-way summit, the first of its kind in 46 years, made no headway toward a political settlement beyond an agreement to keep talking The outlawed Irish Republican Army — IRA — which claims responsibility for much of the terror in Ulster, immediately served notice that what it called "inconclusive" talks were not good enough

Long Draft Holiday Ended; Under 15,000 To Be Called

Washington (AP)— The three month draft holiday, longest since 1948, will end Thursday with a call-up of fewer than 15 000 men for the remainder of the year the Defense Department said Wednesday

Pentagon officials said the new call, covering inductions for October, November and December, will bring total 1971 callups to under 100,000 for the first time in nearly a decade

Draft calls in the first six months of this year totalled 88,000, but only 84.000 were actually inducted before the draft law died June 30.

A Pentagon spokesman said there is no firm figure on last-quarter calls but said they might run as low as 12,000

Selective service authorities have said they anticipate the first men inducted will come from among a pool of college and junior college graduates and dropouts whose draft deferments expired in June.

It's likely that every qualified man with lottery number 125 or lower will be called. Officials said it could reach 140 but that will depend on how soon the Pentagon requires the first men to report for induction.

Selective Service said it would be possible to send out the first letters of "greetings" in three or four days However, the law requires that ten days' notice be given before a man is ordered to report.

Newsmen Need Protection—Stanton

Washington (UPI) — CBS President Frank Stanton testified Wednesday that legislation is needed to protect newsmen from "the dark shadow of surveillance" by government using its subpoena powers to try to reveal a reporter's notes or confidential sources.

Rep. Ogden Reid, R-N.Y., former president of the defunct New York Herald Tribune, urged outlawing court injunctions against publication of news, "thereby removing prior restraint from the reach of the executive."

Both testified at "freedom of press" hearings held by Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of a Senate judiciary subcommittee on constitutional rights, who has proposed no specific legislation.

Ervin said he thought Stanton had "struck a great blow for freedom of the press" by his refusal to comply with a House commerce subcommittee's subpoena for unused film from the CBS documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon." The House refused to vote on the panel's request for a contempt citation against Stanton and the network.

Reid said the "press today is under the most serious attack upon it in our history," both from heavy official criticism and specific legal actions.

Reid said the most dangerous threat is the "fetish for secrecy on the part of those in high places" and their attempts to prevent publication or broadcast of vital information.

"I can't believe the (Vietnam) involvement would have been so deep had the full facts been given to the American people . . .

"There was clearly an attempt by some subordinates — and I don't know how high it went — to deliberately deceive and disguise actions that were major escalations."

Government subpoenas, Stanton said, are a "particularly insidious threat to the ability of newsmen to carry out their responsibilities effectively." He said CBS and NBC personnel were handed 121 such summons in the past 30 months.

Talmadge said the fund would be reimbursed later from a supplemental appropriations bill.

9 Million Eligible

Sponsors of the resolution estimated that nine million disadvantaged children are eligible for the free or cut price meals but that about two million fewer than this number would receive them under the administration's plans.

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., senior Republican on the panel, said he opposed the resolution because use of the special fund bypasses the regular Appropriations Committees.

In addition, he said, "some of these state school-lunch programs are not all they should be."

Democratic leaders announced the resolution would be debated and voted on by the Senate Friday.

STORY AT RIGHT

Newsmen Need Protection—Stanton

Washington (UPI) — CBS President Frank Stanton testified Wednesday that legislation is needed to protect newsmen from "the dark shadow of surveillance" by government using its subpoena powers to try to reveal a reporter's notes or confidential sources.

Rep. Ogden Reid, R-N.Y., former president of the defunct New York Herald Tribune, urged outlawing court injunctions against publication of news, "thereby removing prior restraint from the reach of the executive."

Both testified at "freedom of press" hearings held by Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D N.C., chairman of a Senate judiciary subcommittee on constitutional rights, who has proposed no specific legislation.

Ervin said he thought Stanton had "struck a great blow for freedom of the press" by his refusal to comply with a House commerce subcommittee's subpoena for unused film from the CBS documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon." The House refused to vote on the panel's request for a contempt citation against Stanton and the network.

Reid said the "press today is under the most serious attack upon it in our history," both from heavy official criticism and specific legal actions.

Reid said the most dangerous threat is the "fetish for secrecy on the part of those in high places" and their attempts to prevent publication or broadcast of vital information.

"I can't believe the (Vietnam) involvement would have been so deep had the full facts been given to the American people . . .

"There was clearly an attempt by some subordinates — and I don't know how high it went — to deliberately deceive and disguise actions that were major escalations."

Government subpoenas, Stanton said, are a "particularly insidious threat to the ability of newsmen to carry out their responsibilities effectively." He said CBS and NBC personnel were handed 121 such summons in the past 30 months.

From Press Reports

Budapest — The Hungarian government announced Wednesday that it has granted amnesty to Cardinal Jozsef Mindszenty from the life sentence passed on him in 1949 for treason.

The 79-year-old Roman Catholic primate left Budapest for the Vatican Tuesday after nearly 15 years of self-exile in the U.S. Embassy. The amnesty was announced in the Hungarian Gazette, a bulletin of official announcements.

Meanwhile, the Vatican announced that Cardinal Mindszenty will celebrate mass with Pope Paul VI to open the third World Synod of Bishops.

Blast In Bar Kills 2, Wounds 25 In Belfast

Belfast, Northern Ireland (AP) — A bomb wrecked a crowded Belfast bar Wednesday night, killing two persons and wounding 25, as terrorists spurned appeals for peace.

Fearing the blast might set off rioting, police and British troops sealed off the area around the Four Step Inn in the Protestant Shankill road district.

The bomb went off when the bar was packed with soccer fans on their way home from a game.

Another bomb wrecked a trucking warehouse in the Roman Catholic Lower Falls Road area of the strife-torn capital.

Defying appeals by three prime ministers for an end to the violence, terrorists launched other attacks, including sniper fire on troops patrolling the Catholic Ardoyne area, hitting one soldier in the lower abdomen. He as taken to a hospital.

Terrorists also exchanged fire with troops in sporadic clashes, bombed a bus depot and fired a three-foot antitank rocket at an army post, but missed the target. There were no casualties in any of these predawn outbursts.

The renewed violence flared within hours after Prime Ministers Edward Heath of Britain, Jack Lynch of the Irish Republic and Brian Faulkner of Northern Ireland issued a joint appeal for peace in Ulster, official name of the six Northern Irish counties under British rule.

The three-way summit, the first of its kind in 46 years, made no headway toward a political settlement beyond an agreement to keep talking. The outlawed Irish Republican Army — IRA — which claims responsibility for much of the terror in Ulster, immediately served notice that what it called "inconclusive" talks were not good enough.

Long Draft Holiday Ended; Under 15,000 To Be Called

Washington (AP) — The three month draft holiday, longest since 1948, will end Thursday with a call-up of fewer than 15,000 men for the remainder of the year, the Defense Department said Wednesday.

Pentagon officials said the new call, covering inductions for October, November and December, will bring total 1971 callups to under 100,000 for the first time in nearly a decade.

Draft calls in the first six months of this year totalled 88,000, but only 84,000 were actually inducted before the draft law died June 30.

A Pentagon spokesman said there is no firm figure on last-quarter calls but said they might run as low as 12,000.

Selective service authorities have said they anticipate the first men inducted will come from among a pool of college and junior college graduates and dropouts whose draft deferments expired in June.

It's likely that every qualified man with lottery number 125 or lower will be called. Officials said it could reach 140 but that will depend on how soon the Pentagon requires the first men to report for induction.

Selective Service said it would be possible to send out the first letters of "greetings" in three or four days. However, the law requires that ten days' notice be given before a man is ordered to report.

Cutbacks Result In $114,367 ADC Payments Dip

By The Associated Press

The cutbacks in some Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) payments have resulted in ADC costs being $114,367 below the previous month, according to State Welfare Department figures.

The cutbacks, averaging 9% and said by state officials to be necessitated by projections of monetary difficulties, went into effect Aug. 1, although the action is now being challenged in a federal court lawsuit.

However, figures showed the cost of the ADC program to be $114,367 lower in August than in July and statistics also show the number of ADC cases to be decreased by 372.

Overall, the average payment for each of the state's 40,615 ADC recipients was $42.48, according to the figures, or $2.58 lower than the average a month earlier.

Meanwhile, State Welfare Director Lawrence Graham said he would have no comment on a 33-page manual which advises ADC recipients of their rights.

The manual was written by Lincoln attorney Paul Conley, currently on the staff of the Lancaster County Public Defender's Office.

Titled the "Nebraska Welfare Rights Handbook," the document lists avenues open to ADC recipients to receive various benefits.

It has been reported that the manual was distributed by the Welfare Department to County Officials along with a cover letter from state officials describing it as "atrocious."

However, Graham said, "As far as I know the manual has not been sent out. I didn't send it out but I will check to see if anyone in my department did."

He declined further comment until he completes a further investigation.

Conley said he wrote the manual because of the variety of treatment and benefits received by ADC recipients.

"The State Welfare Department has to come out with definitive regulations uniformly applying to ADC recipients. I'd be happy to burn my book if they would do something on their own," Conley said.

Farm Bureau Official Raps Trucking Proposal

A Nebraska Farm Bureau official said Wednesday that a proposed law requiring livestock truckers to be certified by the State Railway Commission would cause a rise in the retail price of meat through the unintentional creation of a trucking monopoly.

Roland Nelson made the comments to the Legislative Study Committee on Trucking which is considering LB391 which would require Railway Commission certification of intrastate livestock truckers for hire and the publication of their rate schedules.

Speaking in favor of the bill, Jim Preston of the Nebraska Motor Carriers Association said, "The one, two or three truck operators are going to be non-existen unless there is regulation.

Preston contended that publication of rates would tend to halt "cuthroat" competition. He said the real intent of the bill is to insure that the small shipper can remain competitive.

Although Preston conceded that the net effect of the bill might raise prices, he said the bill was necessary to halt the disappearance of the small shipper.

However, Nelson disagreed saying, "Production and feeding of livestock is based wholly upon the competitive enterprise system. Trucking of livestock for hire should also remain on this basis . . . LB391 would . . . reduce, if not completely eliminate, competition in the industry."

Nelson contended that placing livestock trucking under the Railway Commission and thus removing competition would result in lower income for livestock producers.

"The assigned responsibility of the Railway Commission has been to protect the public interest. In this case the 'public interest is hundreds of livestock producers and feeders who are very much opposed to the bill," he said.

Paul Johnston of the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association agreed "Truckers want a guaranteed income at our expense."

I am a member of the Centennial State Carpenter Pension Trust Fund (Colorado). ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

Forecast For Thursday

There is no real conflict between astrologers and astronomers. However, some astronomers insist on posing as authorities on astrology. This does lead to ill-feeling and confuses the public. An astrologer must at least be familiar with the rudiments of astronomy. An astronomer does not necessarily know a thing about astrology.

'Spider' Equal To Dangerous Tasks

By WALTER SULLIVAN

©The New York Times

Brussels — The desperate gunman is holed up on the second floor shooting at anything outside that moves. Suddenly a spider-like device rushes to the door and up the stairs, impervious to the shots, and releases an incapacitating gas.

Or the spider-like contraption goes up to a bomb that — accidentally or by intent—has been armed. Under remote television control, responding to every head, arm and finger movement of its operator, who is safely in the distance, it defuses the bomb.

Or a remote-controlled device in space enters the high radiation environment of a space station's nuclear power plant to change fuel elements or make repairs.

Real Possibilities

All of these situations have become real possiblities through a new American program for development of what are known as teleoperator systems.

They were described here this weekend by E. G. Johnson, chief of equipment facilities in the Space Nuclear Systems Project—a joint effort of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Atomic Energy Commission.

A teleoperator system differs from a robot in that it is not controlled by its own artificial "brain." Rather it is completely under remote human control. In some designs its television eye, arms and "hands" mimic every action of the operator's head arms and fingers.

Case For Teleoperators

At the last session of the International Astronautical Congress here, during which many speakers had extolled the advantages of sending men into space, and in a subsequent interview, Johnson made the case for teleoperators.

Many space missions, he said can only be done by teleoperators—or, at some distant time, when artificial intelligence is sufficiently advanced, by robots.

Teleoperators on the moon, controlled from earth by a succession of scientists concerned with various special problems, could operate around the clock without being subject to fatigue, hunger, thirst, vertigo, or any human weakness. They will almost certainly be the first explorers of Mars and other distant celestial bodies.

Satellite Repairs

For satellite repairs or rescues in earth orbit they will probably be controlled by astronauts inside a space shuttle or orbital station, sparing the man needless exposure to a variety of hazards, Johnson said.

It is also hoped that some of the teleoperator systems will prove useful in enabling those with paralyzed limbs to function again.

The NASA-AEC development project was initiated a year ago, Johnson said, by George Law, deputy administrator of NASA.

Nixon Tells Money Men Isolationism Disturbing

Washington (AP) — President Nixon, decrying what he called "growing and disturbing isolationism in our country," told international finance leaders Wednesday that his administration will continue to press for a strong world role.

In urging International Monetary Fund governors and foreign finance ministers to seek permanent solutions to world financial problems, Nixon said political differences that divide the nations can be substantially reduced if the monetary crisis is eliminated.

"There is a growing and disturbing isolationism in our country," the President said in remarks to a White House reception for those attending this week's IMF meeting here. But he told the foreign leaders: "Those are not views that I share."

"A weak United States will be isolationist without question," Nixon continued, "but a strong United States will continue to play a responsible role in the world."

Actions For Strength

He said his Aug. 15 action in letting the dollar float in international money markets and the 10% import surcharge were intended to keep the United States in a strong position.

"Looking to the future," Nixon said, "you can be assured of our cooperation in reducing barriers and our cooperation in areas of international monetary affairs."

He said the international bankers, in their current negotiations aimed at resolving the world monetary crisis can also make "an immeasurable contribution to world peace" by reaching permanent solutions.

Nixon made his comments a few hours after the head of West Germany's central bank had predicted the United States would devalue the dollar in terms of gold if agreement is reached on an upward revaluation of other major currencies.

Bundesbank President Karl Klasen told reporters that "there is no specific commitment." But he added: "If there is an agreement this will not be an obstacle"

U.S. agreement to raise the price of gold would in fact remove the largest obstacle to settlement of the global money impasse, since Japan and the principal European powers insist that America should contribute in some part to the currency overhaul designed to benefit its own trade.

Rich Urged To Act

Meantime, speakers for the smaller and less-developed nations at the IMF sessions implored the wealthier powers to hasten their efforts to break the currency impasse. Nineteen nations were heard, most of them sounding this theme.

The strongest plea for a workable currency realignment — and for lifting of the U.S. 10% tariff surcharge, Nixon's strongest weapon in persuading the other countries to revalue — came from Colombian Finance Minister Rodrigo Llorente Martinez.

Speaking for all 20 Latin-American republics Llorente said the surcharge should be lifted at once insofar as it applies to shipments from the developing nations, and should be abolished entirely as soon as new exchange rates can be adopted.

"If the present disorder continues for much longer, the free world may become divided — even more than it already is — into monetary, commercial and economic subgroups," Llorente said.

"This prospect would force the less developed countries to make a choice among difficult options, economic as well as political — not to speak of the adverse effects on the world economy."

Nixon, Schweitzer Meet

Nixon conferred for 45 minutes in mid-morning with Pierre-Paul Schweitzer, managing director of the IMF and two of his own top financial advisers, Connally and Chairman Arthur F. Burns of the Federal Reserve Board.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon was "encouraged by the fact that Schweitzer has indicated that members of the IMF understand the action of the United States to correct its deficit in its balance of payments."

Ziegler said Nixon told Schweitzer he was "encouraged by the progress in recent weeks toward general recognition of the need to reform the international monetary system and the need for currency realignment."

$15.4 Billion In Tax Cuts OKd

Washington (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee formally approved $15.4 billion in tax cuts over three years, part of President Nixon's new program to stimulate the economy and create more jobs.

In a last-minute change, the committee raised from 7,500 pounds to 10,000 pounds the weight limit of light trucks subject to repeal of the 10% federal excise tax, retroactive to Sept. 23. This would add $40 million a year to expected federal revenue losses.

Council Allows Three Exemptions To Freeze

Washington (AP) — The Cost of Living Council Wednesday allowed what it said were the first exemptions to the wage-price freeze by allowing new government-funded group-insurance benefit programs to go into effect in Florida, Texas, and Missouri.

In a statement the council said the exemptions were being made because prior group-insurance plans had been dropped in anticipation of the new plans.

"A failure to grant the exemptions would have left the employes involved either without insurance programs or forced them to make payments substantially higher than under previous programs," the council statement said

"The council felt that the latter situation would have caused an undue hardship to many of the lower-paid employes in the groups."

291 Denials

The three approved exemptions contrast with a total 291 exemption requests the government has denied.

Administration officials stated at the outset of the freeze that exemptions would be made only for "gross inequities." Wednesday's ruling is the first indication of how much of a hardship is required to warrant an exemption.

The council ruling affects employe groups in Columbia County, Fla., the Missouri Teachers' Association and the Texas Public Employes' Association.

Lincoln Support

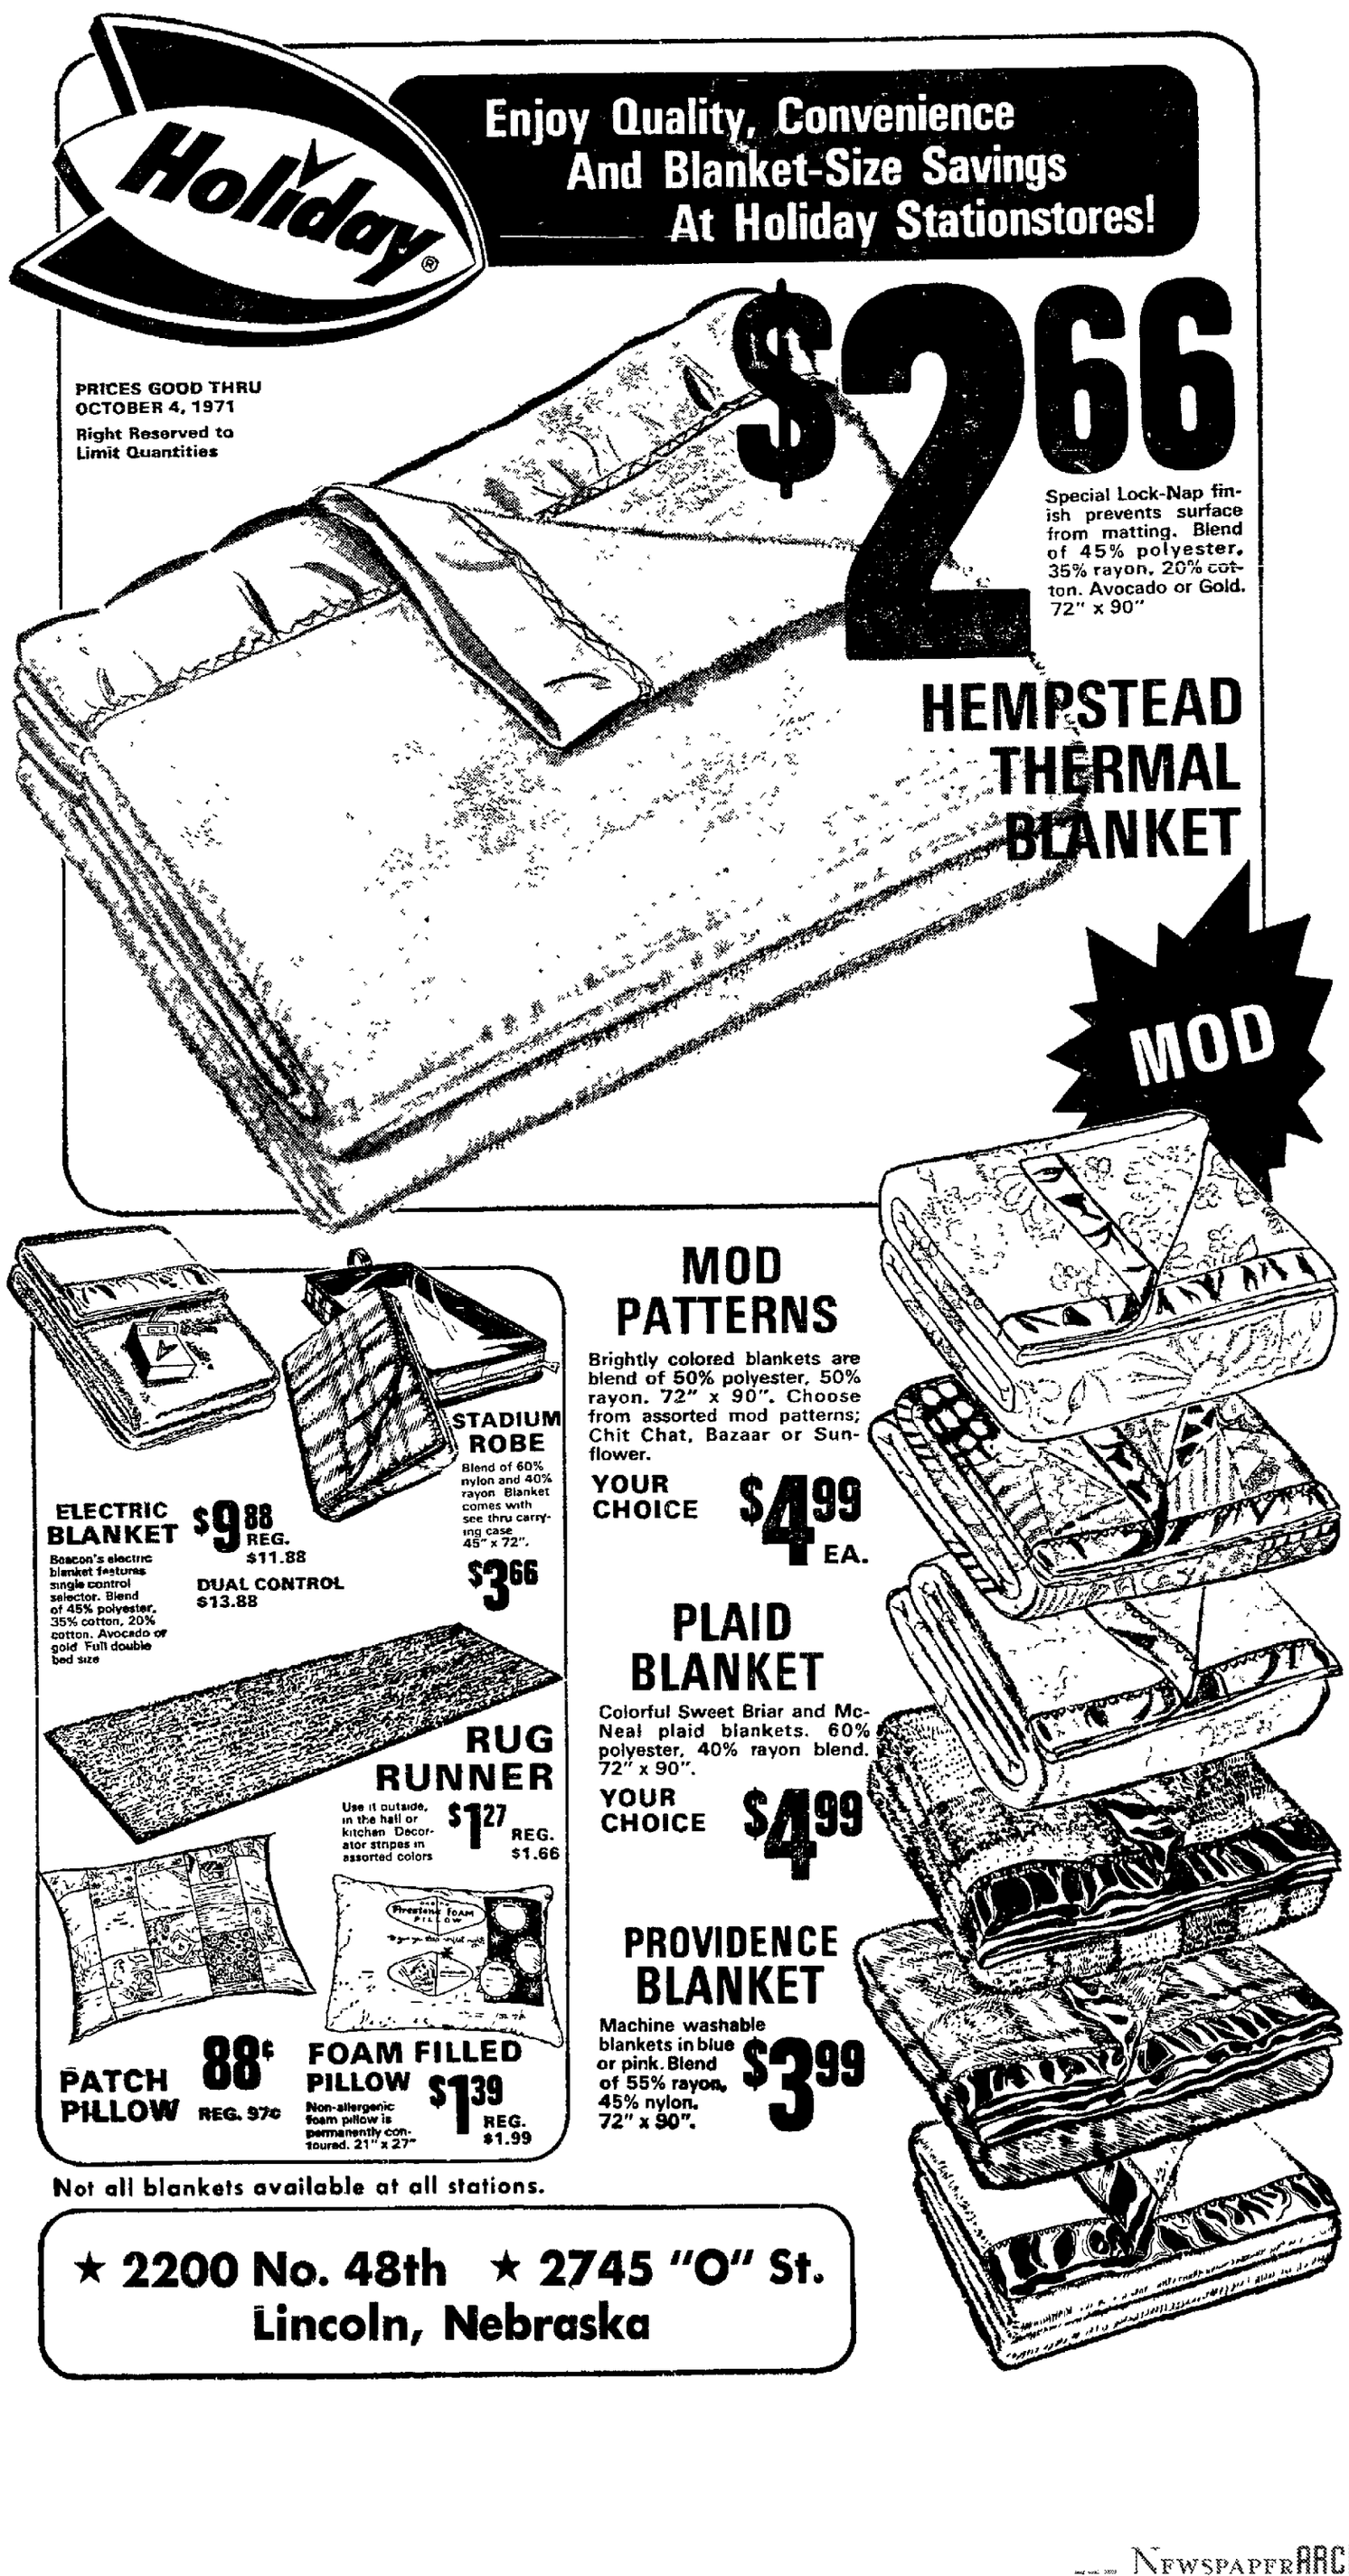

The council said director George Lincoln of the Office of Emergency Preparedness had recommended that the exemptions be granted.

"The council also noted that in all three cases details of the new plans had been made public and employes were being enrolled prior to the freeze," the council said.

In a last-minute change, the committee raised from 7,500 pounds to 10,000 pounds the weight limit of light trucks subject to repeal of the 10% federal excise tax, retroactive to Sept. 23. This would add $40 million a year to expected federal revenue losses.

Council Allows Three Exemptions To Freeze

Washington (AP) — The Cost of Living Council Wednesday allowed what it said were the first exemptions to the wage-price freeze by allowing new government-funded group-insurance benefit programs to go into effect in Florida, Texas, and Missouri.

In a statement the council said the exemptions were being made because prior group-insurance plans had been dropped in anticipation of the new plans.

"A failure to grant the exemptions would have left the employes involved either without insurance programs or forced them to make payments substantially higher than under previous programs," the council statement said.

"The council felt that the latter situation would have caused an undue hardship to many of the lower-paid employes in the groups."

291 Denials

The three approved exemptions contrast with a total 291 exemption requests the government has denied.

Administration officials stated at the outset of the freeze that exemptions would be made only for "gross inequities." Wednesday's ruling is the first indication of how much of a hardship is required to warrant an exemption.

The council ruling affects employe groups in Columbia County, Fla., the Missouri Teachers' Association and the Texas Public Employes' Association.

Lincoln Support

The council said director George Lincoln of the Office of Emergency Preparedness had recommended that the exemptions be granted.

"The council also noted that in all three cases details of the new plans had been made public and employes were being enrolled prior to the freeze," the council said.

Mines Brightened

London (AP) — The National Coal Board said it was whitewashing coal mine shafts to improve vision, reduce accidents and raise morale.

11-Point Plan Is Aimed At Improving State's Insurance Laws

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Recommending against currently-used "no fault automobile insurance plans," the Nebraska State Bar Association adopted Wednesday an 11-point plan for improving the state's insurance laws and the tort system of liability.

The official position of Nebraska lawyers in the controversy over "no fault" insurance came in the adoption of a special committee report by the association's 38-member House of Delegates meeting in Lincoln.

During the one-day session, the delegates unanimously named Richard D. Wilson, a Lincoln Attorney, as chairman-elect. He will succeed Alfred G. Ellick of Omaha as chairman in 1973 for a two-year term.

The 19-member committee, chaired by M. J. Bruckner of Lincoln, reported none of the no-fault plans used by other states merit adoption by Nebraska.

Problems, which the plans of other states attempt to solve, "do not exist in Nebraska or exist in such slight degree that they can be solved . . . without sacrificing the advantages of the time-tested jury and adversary system," according to the committee.

It said the public has "been misled to believe" that no-fault insurance will cost less, but provide greater benefits.

No-fault insurance plans, as used or proposed in Massachusetts, Delaware, Illinois and Florida, compensate accident victims for medical and related expense on a pre-determined scale without determination of fault, but prohibit appeal to court juries except in certain circumstances.

"No fault insurance will erode this nation's jury system," said Bruckner. "The large insurance companies would rather deal with state legislatures in fixing compensation rates than with the jury system."

"The little guy will get a fairer break with a jury," he said, "than with the insurance adjuster under a no-fault plan."

The committee noted automobile tort cases comprise less than 10% of the load on the Nebraska courts, and any case "can be brought to trial within nine months to a year of the date of filing."

The complaint of "congestion in the courts" doesn't apply to Nebraska, it said.

The 11-point plan, recommended by the committee, as "a much better alternative" to no-fault insurance plans being offered, included these key recommendations:

—elimination of the "guest" statute and intra-family immities in the current state law.

—that every insurance policy provide medical coverage and a minimum economic loss of $1,500 for the owner of the insured vehicle, his family and passengers.

—enforcement of sanctions designed to prevent injuries resulting from alcohol or drug influenced drivers.

—maintain the contingent fee system for attorneys in tort cases, but on a sliding scale determined and supervised by court rule.

—mandatory coverage against uninsured motorists in all automobile liability policies.

—the development of a spirit of cooperation between the legal profession and doctors hospitals for holding unpaid medical bills in abeyance until personal injury claims can be successfully concluded.

—exploration for an effective merit rating system for liability insurance.

—that attorneys involved in automobile accident injury claims assist the injured person collecting his first party insurance claims without additional fee.

Health Dept. Reminds Nebraskans Measles, Rubella Season Is Near

The State Department of Health is reminding Nebraskans that the measles and Rubella season is approaching and parents should protect their children by having them immunized against these diseases.

A new combined Rubella and measles vaccine is available through physicians and health departments that protects children against both diseases in one shot. During the October through January period, the diseases occur most commonly.

Measles, the most easily spread among children, can cause serious complications, the department noted. These can result in blindness, deafness, mental retardation and sometimes death.

Rubella, commonly known as German measles, can be serious when contracted by a female in the first three months of pregnancy, causing severe birth defects and stillborn babies.

Haley Sentenced In Heroin Case

Grand Island (UPI) — Dennis Haley of Grand Island was sentenced to a term of 1-2 years of hard labor in the Nebraska Penal Complex on a conviction of selling heroin.

The sentence was handed down in Hall County District Court.

John Wolfe, also of Grand Island, received the same sentence on a forgery conviction.

Mums, Wild Flowers Go On Display

Mead — A multitude of flowers for home and highway beautification will be on display here, Sunday, Oct. 3, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wild flowers and ornamental plants, part of a highway beautification project, will be viewed in addition to the traditional showing of new and established mum varieties.

Altogether, 141 different varieties, crosses and selections of mums will be shown at the University of Nebraska Field Laboratory. The difference between a varsity and selection, according to Sotero Salac, research associate in the Department of Horticulture and Forestry, is that a selection is a plant still in a testing phase. It does not have a name nor is it available to the public. A variety is a plant which has been named and is available to the public.

Plots containing mums which have been crossed for research purposes will also be shown. Salac said that tests were being conducted to determine flower size, color and quantity. Winter hardiness, heat tolerance, and earliness of flowering are three areas of concern with respect to quality.

Ornamental plants which are being tested for in highway beautification will be on display. The studies are being conducted in cooperation with the Nebraska Department of Roads. Two hundred and twenty different species are being tested in all.

Wild flowers, native to Nebraska, are being investigated for use in highway butterfly milk weed (asdlepias different species on display are butterfly milS weed (asdlepias tuberosa) gay feather (liatris punctata) and purple prairie clover (petalostemum purpureum).

According to Salac, research is being conducted to find out what effects mowing will have on the plant at different stages of growth. When the research is finished, a mowing policy will be suggested and the date presented to the Department of Roads.

Costume Change Cancels Omaha Council Hearing

Omaha (AP) — The City Council has cancelled a hearing scheduled for next Tuesday on the revocation of the liquor license of Caesar's Place Lounge after an attorney for the club said women entertainers have changed their costumes.

Albert Feldman, an attorney and part owner of the club told the council in a letter Tuesday that the dancers at the club now are attired "in costume similar to that utilized by all other liquor establishments in the city of Omaha."

Iowa Expected To Be Given Jurisdiction In AWOL Case

Omaha (AP) — Assistant U.S. Dist. Atty. William Schaphorst said Wednesday two AWOL Marines arrested by FBI agents in a wooded area near Millard Tuesday probably will be returned to Iowa.

The two, identified as Larry P. Edwards, 17, of Gravity, Iowa and Dana R. Rankin, 18, of Omaha, escaped from the Taylor County Jail at Bedford, Iowa, Monday night, the FBI said.

Schaphorst said Iowa probably will be given jurisdiction of the case because of the more serious charges in that state.

The FBI said the men were unarmed at the time of their capture, but had hacksaw blades in their possession.

At Bedford, Sheriff Leonard Ratliff said it was believed someone who had visited the pair in jail may have slipped them blades used to saw through bars in a window.

After they escaped, an auto and shotgun were reported stolen from a motor company at Bedford. Thompson said Omaha police found the car Tuesday.

Officers said other warrants for their arrests were from Muscatine, Iowa, Nashville, Tenn., and Papillion, Neb., on charges of auto theft.

'Future Depends On Ability To Change Values'

Alliance — "The future of man depends on his ability to change his values, his style of living and adapt himself to conditions that we haven't accepted yet."

Robert J. Strawn Jr., president of Biogenic Research and Engineering, Inc. of Denver, Colo., expressed this idea to approximately 600 Home Extension Club members attending the annual meeting of the Nebraska Council of Home Extension Clubs here Wednesday.

The council announced the identity of three scholarship winners for this year during the group's meeting.

Receiving $250 grants were Lois Petersen Linke of Syracuse and Linda Parson Radant of Valley. Both girls are home economics majors at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. The scholarship awarded to Mrs. Linke was awarded in the name of Dr. Mary Ruth Rapp, recently deceased Extension supervisor in home economics.

The Mary Ellen Brown memorial scholarship of $156 was awarded by the organization to Kay Mumm of Wahoo. Miss Mumm is also a home economics sudent at NU.

POSTCARD by Stan Lapsley

Foggy days around Snug Harbor. Now down in South Carolina (and nothing could be finah) a judge's hair is turning from gray to black.

So the reporters noticed. Believe me there isn't much doing on the courthouse beat. You're lucky to get one story a day in the paper.

So the reporters said "What gives with the bonnie fair, Your Honor?" (Bonnie fair is Australian rhyming slang—hair, catch?)

So the judge said: "Sunflower seeds."

Seems while listening to lawyers argue and make motions, the judge sat up there cracking sunflower seeds. And his gray hair began to darken.

You could try it.

☆ ☆ ☆

"His locks are bushy and black as a raven." That's Solomon's song.

Much to be admired about that. But what can be done when a lot of hair drifted away and the rest turned the color of your gray flannel suit?

There's some stuff advertised that turns your hair dark gradually So gradually, people in your office don't notice it.

They just say "What have you been doing with yourself, Joe? You look 10 years younger." (But does Joe feel 10 years younger? Likely not.)

☆ ☆ ☆

What's with household improvements? I bought a paperback on this A collection of household hints written in by house wrens

How vinegar cleans brick fireplaces. Some chicks put vinegar on crepe or on mahogany. One writer says she uses it to clean her satin shoes.

They use old milk cartons in wily ways

Why hair gets gray is because of frightful living. Some Jill backing out of a parking place in our shopping center gave me a fright to last the day.

I'd just got out of my car when she put hers into reverse. If I had not been Jack-be-nimble, the insurance company would be weeping today.

Women run cars around shopping centers as though they were grocery carts. One side of the line or the other, no difference.

"Women drivers are a caution," said my grandfather. He advised me to be cautious.

He had gray hair. He said it came from a life of pain and sorrow.

"It certainly didn't come from going to church," said grandma My grandfather winked at me from behind the newspaper.

☆ ☆ ☆

Insurance companies say women are having more accidents They don't know why.

I think theu are having them in shopping centers

While the car is whizzing down the narrow aisle, the lady turns to Junior in the back seat.

"Stop opening those cookies or I'll tell your father!"

Schreeeeech! The pedestrian leaps for life. The car behind hits the brakes. Into this disaster zone, a lady is backing out of the diagonal.

Looking backward? Not so. She is examining her makeup in the mirror — that's why they make rear view mirrors. After she backs up a car length or so, then she will look back.

That is why insurance company presidents get gray hair. I said to the house wren: "I see we've got a new dent in the back of the car." She said: "It happened in the shopping center. Some people will never learn how to drive."

And on that happy note, off to the icebox for a cold beer and cool contemplation of the world on its axis

What's with household improvements? I bought a paperback on this. A collection of household hints written in by house wrens.

How vinegar cleans brick fireplaces. Some chicks put vinegar on crepe or on mahogany. One writer says she uses it to clean her satin shoes.

They use old milk cartons in wily ways.

Why hair gets gray is because of frightful living. Some Jill backing out of a parking place in our shopping center gave me a fright to last the day.

I'd just got out of my car when she put hers into reverse. If I had not been Jack-be-nimble, the insurance company would be weeping today.

Women run cars around shopping centers as though they were grocery carts. One side of the line or the other, no difference.

"Women drivers are a caution," said my grandfather. He advised me to be cautious.

He had gray hair. He said it came from a life of pain and sorrow.

"It certainly didn't come from going to church," said grandma. My grandfather winked at me from behind the newspaper.

☆ ☆ ☆

Insurance companies say women are having more accidents. They don't know why.

I think theu are having them in shopping centers.

While the car is whizzing down the narrow aisle, the lady turns to Junior in the back seat.

"Stop opening those cookies or I'll tell your father!"

Schreeeeech! The pedestrian leaps for life. The car behind hits the brakes. Into this disaster zone, a lady is backing out of the diagonal.

Looking backward? Not so. She is examining her makeup in the mirror — that's why they make rear view mirrors. After she backs up a car length or so, then she will look back.

That is why insurance company presidents get gray hair. I said to the house wren: "I see we've got a new dent in the back of the car." She said: "It happened in the shopping center. Some people will never learn how to drive."

And on that happy note, off to the icebox for a cold beer and cool contemplation of the world on its axis.

Road Dept. Employe Unit's Letter Blasts Doyle

The Board of Directors of the Nebraska Department of Roads Employe Association said Wednesday in an open letter to State Engineer Thomas D. Doyle that Doyle's firing of NDREA chairman Richard Kiernan will not "destroy" the group.

Charging that Doyle's actions were an attempt to discourage the association, the directors said, "We have taken you to court, and we will defeat you."

The letter was published in the first issue of "The Watchdog," the official publication of the NDREA.

Kiernan was recently fired by Doyle for remarks he made at a professional engineers meeting where he questioned Doyle's qualifications for the appointed post of state engineer.

Calling the action "a serious attack" on the group, the letter said, "Your action in this case is consistent with your actions in the past. You have done everything in your power to discourage the formation of NDREA.

"You have called people into your office, refused us the use of the bulletin boards, not allowed us to use state buildings after hours and in general have hindered and harassed us every step of the way."

The directors denied that any of their attacks on the department were personally directed at Doyle.

"Such is not the case. It is you who have personally attacked us. We have attacked the archaic and obsolete ideas about state government that exist in people's minds; we have responded when attacks such as your recent action were made our very existence," they said.

The directors said they hoped after the Court of Industrial Relations decides on Oct. 20 whether Doyle's actions are "futile," that "you would sit down with us and in good faith work to provide just compensation for state employes."

Lyle Nelson, vice-chairman of the NDREA, said part of the intention behind "The Watchdog" was to encourage employes in other state agencies to form employe association. For this reason, the publication was widely distributed around the State Capitol.

"It has always been one of our long-range goals to encourage other agency employes to organize," Nelson said, "Eventually, all the various organizations might unite into one state employe group."

The Board of Directors of the NDREA are Donald Dion, Harry Gregory, Richard Kiernan, Lyle Nelson, Earl Pittman, Jesse Ross, Charles Scott, H. V. Stines and Leonard Weander. The group claims a membership of over 1,300 employes.

Connolly Elected County Attorneys Association Head

Adams County Atty. William Connolly was elected president of the Nebraska County Attorneys Association at the group's annual meeting Wednesday in Lincoln.

Other officers named were Deputy Lancaster County Atty. Ronald Lahners, vice president; Johnson County Atty. Thomas Morrissey, secretary, and Deputy Douglas County Atty. Samuel Cooper, treasurer.

The meeting was held prior to the opening of the general session of the Nebraska State Bar Association.

Jensen Receives Hero Award For Saving Student

Holdrege (UPI) — Stephen Jensen of Holdrege Wednesday was accorded a Nebraska hero award for his role in saving the life of Jack Treadway, 21, of Kearney, at a sandpit lake near Kearney June 28.

Jensen, a Kearney State College student, will be honored at a hero night sponsored by the Nebraska Funeral Directors Association in Omaha next April.

Volume Of Mail Shows Increase

The Lincoln Post Office reports an increase of 26.3% in mail volume over last year for the period from Aug. 21-Sep. 17, and an increase of 14.2% for the year to date over last year.

Postal revenue has seen an increase of 34.6% for this same period over last year, with $941,090.69. To date this year, revenue has been $2,534,906.87, an increase of 22.8% over last year at this time.

UNL Campus Urged To Retain Full Stature

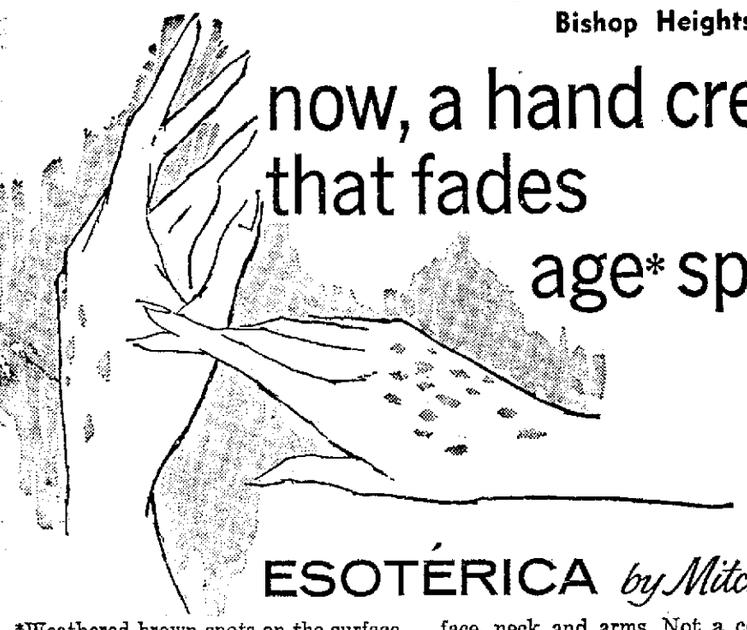

The East Lincoln Business and Professional Association has adopted a resolution suggesting that Lincoln be retained in full stature as seat of the University of Nebraska.

A spokesman said the group understands that moves are under consideration to switch some academic and research work from the Lincoln campus to the University of Nebraska at Omaha (UNO). Without reducing the stature of UNO, the group opposes any such transfers because of UNO's parking and enrollment decline problems, the spokesman said.

BOOKS—"From The Jaws Of Victory"

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON

During the waiting months of the American Civil War, after the tide had turned against the Confederacy, and Ulysses S. Grant had been named commander of the Army of the Potomac, President Abraham Lincoln had occasion to make one of his lesser-known verbal observations. His remark was directed at Gen. Ambrose Burnside, possibly the least effective in a series of incompetent officers who had at one time commandeered the Union forces.

Burnside, who, at the time, was in charge of the 9th Corps, had managed to bring about the deaths of some 4,000 of his men by ordering them into an explosion-created crater where they were easy targets for Confederate marksmen. Of this incredible performance, coming as it did on the heels of numerous other Burnsidian blunders, Lincoln remarked: "Only Burnside could have managed such a coup, wringing one last spectacular defeat from the jaws of victory."

The tradition of military incompetence—so aptly exemplified by the career of Ambrose Burnside—is the topic of Charles Fair's new book, appropriately entitled "From The Jaws Of Victory." Fair's characters are military leaders of varying degrees of ineptitude who have graced the stage of history from the days of Crassus to those of William Westmoreland; and the tale he tells is one of arrogance gone amuck, overstated ambition, and especially, of just plain stupidity in high places.

Fair begins his study with a portrait of Marcus Liunius Crassus, the general whom the author describes as the "all-American Roman of his day." Of Crassus, he goes on to say: "As a statesman he forecast those of today, who, having adopted non-sensical policies, refuse under any circumstances (including total failure) to give them up. As a commander he anticipates the military counterpart of those statesmen: the type of general who hopes by sheer technical and numerical superiority to bludgeon his way to victory."

The author's register of military incompetents goes on to include such notables as Philip VI of France, Philip II (of Spanish Armada fame), Napoelon, George McClellan, Hitler, Westmoreland and, of course, Burnside.

Perhaps his most interesting chapter is that in which he devotes considerable attention to Charles XII of Sweden and his rival, Peter the Great of Russia. Fair is sympathetic towards both characters, ultimately describing Charles as "tragic" (the Fatal Flaw type); and Peter as a hard-nosed realist who "did not kill people for absolutely nothing"—a trait which Fair finds somehow endearing.

In the main, the author seems intent on proving that, with regard to warfare, history has wrought few changes. The techniques of the 20th century general may be different from those of Crassus, and generally speaking, battles are better planned, and executed on a larger scale; however, so far as tactical blunders, miscalculations and senseless killing are concerned, the moden military man seems to have learned little from the mistakes made in the past. He is just as apt to misread the enemy, cling to an unworkable scheme, and cause unnecessary human suffering as were his predecessors. To Fair, the United States involvement in Vietnam is patent proof that changes have occurred only with respect to the degree and amount of damage done.

Although he seems at times overly-obsessed with his attempt to blame the generals for everything (after all, there must be some degree of popular support to sustain a war effort); and on occasion just a trifle naive (witness his rather simplistic account of the antecedants of the Civil War), the author has, on the whole, produced a highly readable and historically commendable account which will be of interest to those who are enamoured of military strategies and personalities.

Grant had been named commander of the Army of the Potomac, President Abraham Lincoln had occasion to make one of his lesser-known verbal observations. His remark was directed at Gen. Ambrose Burnside, possibly the least effective in a series of incompetent officers who had at one time commandeered the Union forces.

Burnside, who, at the time, was in charge of the 9th Corps, had managed to bring about the deaths of some 4,000 of his men by ordering them into an explosion-created crater where they were easy targets for Confederate marksmen. Of this incredible performance, coming as it did on the heels of numerous other Burnsidian blunders, Lincoln remarked: "Only Burnside could have managed such a coup, wringing one last spectacular defeat from the jaws of victory."

The tradition of military incompetence—so aptly exemplified by the career of Ambrose Burnside—is the topic of Charles Fair's new book, appropriately entitled "From The Jaws Of Victory." Fair's characters are military leaders of varying degrees of ineptitude who have graced the stage of history from the days of Crassus to those of William Westmoreland; and the tale he tells is one of arrogance gone amuck, overstated ambition, and especially, of just plain stupidity in high places.

Fair begins his study with a portrait of Marcus Liunius Crassus, the general whom the author describes as the "all-American Roman of his day." Of Crassus, he goes on to say: "As a statesman he forecast those of today, who, having adopted non-sensical policies, refuse under any circumstances (including total failure) to give them up. As a commander he anticipates the military counterpart of those statesmen: the type of general who hopes by sheer technical and numerical superiority to bludgeon his way to victory."

The author's register of military incompetents goes on to include such notables as Philip VI of France, Philip II (of Spanish Armada fame), Napoelon, George McClellan, Hitler, Westmoreland and, of course, Burnside.

Perhaps his most interesting chapter is that in which he devotes considerable attention to Charles XII of Sweden and his rival, Peter the Great of Russia. Fair is sympathetic towards both characters, ultimately describing Charles as "tragic" (the Fatal Flaw type); and Peter as a hard-nosed realist who "did not kill people for absolutely nothing"—a trait which Fair finds somehow endearing.

In the main, the author seems intent on proving that, with regard to warfare, history has wrought few changes. The techniques of the 20th century general may be different from those of Crassus, and generally speaking, battles are better planned, and executed on a larger scale; however, so far as tactical blunders, miscalculations and senseless killing are concerned, the moden military man seems to have learned little from the mistakes made in the past. He is just as apt to misread the enemy, cling to an unworkable scheme, and cause unnecessary human suffering as were his predecessors. To Fair, the United States involvement in Vietnam is patent proof that changes have occurred only with respect to the degree and amount of damage done.

Although he seems at times overly-obsessed with his attempt to blame the generals for everything (after all, there must be some degree of popular support to sustain a war effort); and on occasion just a trifle naive (witness his rather simplistic account of the antecedants of the Civil War), the author has, on the whole, produced a highly readable and historically commendable account which will be of interest to those who are enamoured of military strategies and personalities.

THE TALK AROUND TOWN

Yesterday we began the story of the weekend, but somehow time and space prevented its conclusion. We did mention that there were parties all around the town, and we chattered a bit about the festivities in Washington, D.C. for Mrs. A. B. Sheldon—We have a postscript on that, by the way. In addition to the parties and the activities in Washington, D.C., we have some news from Kenilworth, Ill., that will be of interest to Lincoln.

* * *

But first let's go to Washington, D.C. and stay long enough to tell you that Mrs. Sheldon is the first woman to be honored by the Nebraska Association, and that this also is the first time that the arts has appeared in the honors picture.

As everyone knows by this time the new Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C., has been chosen as the place for the formal dinner on Monday evening when Mrs. Sheldon, of course, is the honored guest.

The group going from Lincoln, and other Nebraska cities also are looking forward to Sunday evening. They will be attending the ballet at the Center, but what not very many people know is that Mrs. Sheldon and her party will view the performance from the Presidential box.

We think there should be a round of applause for two former Nebraskans who are serving as co-chairmen for the Nebraska Association's activities this weekend. They are Miss Sally Bloom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton E. Bloom, who now is careering as secretary for Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin, and Dan Wherry, the nephew of the late Sen. Kenneth Wherry.

* * *

About that news from Kenilworth. Actually the news comes from Chicago and from the offices of Duff and Phelps, Inc., and Duff, Anderson and Clark, Inc., both Investment Analyst firms, and it has to do with the fact that Raymond C. L. Greer Jr., has been elected president of both corporations.

Mr. and Mrs. Greer and their family reside in Kenilworth, and we are sure that almost everyone knows that Mrs. Greer is the former Mary Aitken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William I. Aitken.

* * *

And now for the dinner dances that come under the heading of dancing clubs.

There are two of them on Saturday evening, and it wouldn't take a second guess to know that one of them has "Go Big Red" for its theme. That's the Terpsichorean Club which will do its dining and dancing in the Terrace Room at Hotel Lincoln.

The party planners include Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Foster, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Wendelin and Dr. and Mrs. Rudolph Meyer.

New members are to be greeted, we hear, and they are Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Gana of Roca; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hayner of Omaha, formerly of Lincoln; Mr. and Mrs. Robert White, and Maj. and Mrs. Jack Irving.

* * *

Also dining and dancing on Saturday evening — but at the Radisson-Cornhusker Hotel, will be the members of the Saturday Nite Club. The program calls for cocktails at 7 o'clock—dinner at 8 o'clock—and dancing from 9 o'clock on.

Arranging the details is a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Lichtenberg, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Boyd MacDougall, Mr. and Mrs. Don Crosier, Mr. and Mrs. K. D. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Don Howe.

The Saturday Niters also will be welcoming new members including Mr. and Mrs. Vance Balfour of Nehawka, Dr. and Mrs. William Beckenhauer, the Rev. and Mrs. Henry Burton, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Krause, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Noren and Mr. and Mrs. David White.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Ebers of Fremont will be party guests.

* * *

Doubtless there will be something of an exodus to Columbia, Mo., the weekend of Oct. 9, but the members of the 100 Club—at least most of them—will be staying at home. The 100 Club, you see is having a dinner dance at the Elks Club on Saturday evening, Oct. 9, and since it is the first party of the new season almost all of the members, including new ones, will be on hand.

Those new members are Mr. and Mrs. Loren L. Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Blomgren, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Czura, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Griswold, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stiles, Mr. and Mrs. Skip Ward and Mr. and Mrs. Jonothan L. Waterbury.

The club's official staff for the 1971-72 seasons includes Mr. and Mrs. Kep Harding, president; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Harvey, vice-president; Mr. and Mrs. Ken Boshart, secretary; Mr. and Mrs. Les Buckley, treasurer; Mr. and Mrs. Loren Jackson, chairmen of the membership committee, and Dr. and Mrs. Quentin Quay, publicity chairmen.

We Hear That

Mr. and Mrs. David Cotton of Hastings, formerly of Lincoln, announce the arrival of a son, Master Corey Eugene Cotton, who had his world premier on Sunday, Aug. 22. The infant's sister is two-year-old Miss Jamie Lyn, and his grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Paden of Red Cloud and Mr. and Mrs. Harley Cotton of Lincoln.

ABBY: how about 1909 Rolls Royce?

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: When we're out in company, my husband makes remarks like, "I think a man should be able to trade in his wife for a new model, just like he trades in his automobile." Abby, we've been married for 40 years and I don't think this kind of talk is a bit funny. He calls me his "1909 model." I'm not very witty, but I wish I had a snappy comeback for him when he talks like that. Can you think of one?

OLD MODEL

DEAR OLD: Tell your wisecracker that just because a model is "new" doesn't mean it's better. Then ask him if he's priced a 1909 Rolls-Royce lately.

DEAR ABBY: I share an office with eight other women. One has a habit which is about to drive us up a wall. She breathes very loudly. It sounds like the cooing of a dove — only it's louder and much more annoying.

We complained to the supervisor who spoke to her about it. She told him she couldn't help it as she suffers from asthma, and he believed her! I think she is just trying to attract attention because if someone whispers, she immediately stops her heavy breathing and breathes normally so she can hear what's being said. Now, you can't tell me "asthma" can be controlled that easily.

How can we shut her up? She can be heard above nine typewriters.

LOUISVILLE

DEAR LOUISVILLE: The best way to shut out annoying sounds is with ear plugs. Of course, you won't be able to hear the telephone, the fire alarm, or the boss when he talks to you but if you believe this woman is making annoying sounds just to attract attention, this solution will attract so much attention that the boss will have to isolate her if he wants to get some work out of the rest of you.

DEAR ABBY: We are two married couples who are living together in a spacious three bedroom, two bath apartment.

The reaction of our friends to this arrangement has been strange. The first thing they say is, "I didn't know you were swingers and swappers."

We aren't. We just like each other and find it economically beneficial to share one large apartment.

The reaction of our friends doesn't bother us, but we were surprised by it, and are interested in yours. We are not Bob, Carol, Ted and Alice: We are

—JOHN, MARY, DICK AND JANE

Dear J. M., D. AND J.: Would you believe it would not have occurred to me to question your sleeping arrangements?

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hard At Work On "Broadway" Project

Each fall, a committee of members of the Junior Woman's Club sets aside a day to put the finishing touches on one of the organization's biggest projects — sponsorship of the Lincoln Broadway League.

The day is spent stuffing envelopes with those precious season tickets for the three Broadway shows that are brought to Lincoln.

The final step is sealing the envelopes, and the season is ready to begin.

The productions this year are "Folklorico" on Tuesday, Oct. 19; "Promises, Promises" on Monday, Jan. 17; and "The Last of the Red Hot Lovers" on Thursday, Feb. 10.

District I, NFWC Plans Convention

District I of the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs will hold its 68th annual convention in Lincoln on Tuesday, Oct. 5.

Convention activities will be centered round the Lincoln Woman's Club House at 407 So. 14th St., beginning with registration and a coffee hour beginning at 8 o'clock in the morning.

Guest speakers for the annual conference will include Mrs. Ervin Watkins of Venango, president of the Nebraska Federation; Mrs. Don Kolterman of Seward, NFWC first vice president; and Mrs. Dave Proctor of Aurora, state director of Junior clubs.

Assisting the Lincoln Women's Club in hosting the convention will be the Lincoln Junior Women's Club, and the Heritage League.

Completing the convention activities will be a 6 o'clock evening banquet planned at Hotel Lincoln. The keynote address will be presented by Lt. Gov. Frank Marsh.

Banquet reservations are to be made with District I President Mrs. Harley McCoid by Saturday, Oct. 2—at 425 So. 52nd St., or 488-7419.

In The Suburban Areas

To no one's great dismay, there are few Nebraskans who have yet tired of the at home games of the No. I team in the nation. Tickets are as scarce as ever, and those lucky folks who do hold tickets consider themselves among the more fortunate.

While the games have not lost their spark of interest, it does seem that pre-game and after game parties are diminishing as the fourth successive home game nears, and suburbia is turning its free moments to some other entertainment -- from the larger parties, to more intimate family gatherings.

This is especially true when there are relatives visiting from out of town. At the Maple Village home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bardsley, last Sunday evening was a noted occasion for a family get-together.

The guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Patzloff of Holtville, Calif., who are visiting Nebraska with their two children, Michael and Dina, and were the guests of Mr. Patzloff's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Bardsley.

Other dinner guests included Mrs. Bardsley's mother, Mrs. Wayve Patzloff of Ceresco; another brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Patzloff; and two sisters and brothers-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Stewart of Ceresco, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cernik and their daughter, Ellen, of Bellevue.

Later on in the evening, friends dropped by to join the family for cake, ice cream and coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Trumble also hosted guests at their Eastmont home last weekend. One of the visitors was Fred Trumble who makes the trip from Red Oak, Iowa, to his parents' home each football weekend. But last weekend another guest graced the Trumble threshold. Roger Gardner, a friend of Fred Trumble's, flew to Lincoln from his home in New Jersey to see his alma mater, the University of Nebraska, steal the game from Texas A & M. During this week, Mr. Gardner is visiting his brother in Omaha, but will return to the Trumble home this weekend for another Nebraska victory — we hope.

Speaking of guests, we have more news this morning of visitors to Lincoln's suburban areas.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Bott welcomed three guests from Denver, Colo., into their Kimballcrest home last weekend — they were Mrs. Bott's brothers, Leldon Wallace and Louis Wallace, and her mother, Mrs. Nettie Wallace.

Before Mrs. Bott's brother departed for their return trip on Sunday, they were treated to a family dinner.

Mrs. Wallace plans to remain in Lincoln for an extended visit.

Mr. Pearle Frey of Kimberly Heights entertained a guest recently — and she also has been kept busy attending dances.

Mrs. Frey's guest was her mother, Mrs. Grace Callahan of Red Cloud, who stayed for a week-long visit with her daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. Charles DeShon, and Mr. DeShon.

The dancing that we referred to included a trip to Omaha and the Polka Days which were held there recently. Accompanying Mrs. Frey to Omaha's Peony Park were Glenn Kollars and Mr. and Mrs. Gib Meier.

The Park Manor home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter VanDeventer has been the destination of several out-of-state guests recently — and the welcome mat will be out again this weekend.

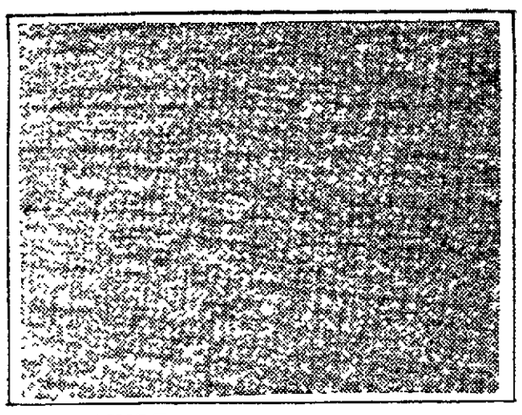

Recent visitors were Mr. VanDeventer's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold VanDeventer of Seattle, Wash., who made several stops in the Midwest.

For example, the Seattle couple went to Stella, where they saw some friends and relatives — and, upon their return to Lincoln, they were the guests of the Ray VanDeventers at a family dinner. The guest list also included the Walter VanDeventers.

Hard At Work On "Broadway" Project

Each fall, a committee of members of the Junior Woman's Club sets aside a day to put the finishing touches on one of the organization's biggest projects — sponsorship of the Lincoln Broadway League.

The day is spent stuffing envelopes with those precious season tickets for the three Broadway shows that are brought to Lincoln.

The final step is sealing the envelopes, and the season is ready to begin.

The productions this year are "Folklorico" on Tuesday, Oct. 19; "Promises, Promises" on Monday, Jan. 17; and "The Last of the Red Hot Lovers" on Thursday, Feb. 10.

District I, NFWC Plans Convention

District I of the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs will hold its 68th annual convention in Lincoln on Tuesday, Oct. 5.

Convention activities will be centered round the Lincoln Woman's Club House at 407 So. 14th St., beginning with registration and a coffee hour beginning at 8 o'clock in the morning.

Guest speakers for the annual conference will include Mrs. Ervin Watkins of Venango, president of the Nebraska Federation; Mrs. Don Kolterman of Seward, NFWC first vice president; and Mrs. Dave Proctor of Aurora, state director of Junior clubs.

Assisting the Lincoln Women's Club in hosting the convention will be the Lincoln Junior Women's Club, and the Heritage League.

Completing the convention activities will be a 6 o'clock evening banquet planned at Hotel Lincoln. The keynote address will be presented by Lt. Gov. Frank Marsh.

Banquet reservations are to be made with District I President Mrs. Harley McCoid by Saturday, Oct. 2—at 425 So. 52nd St., or 488-7419.

In The Suburban Areas

To no one's great dismay, there are few Nebraskans who have yet tired of the at home games of the No. I team in the nation. Tickets are as scarce as ever, and those lucky folks who do hold tickets consider themselves among the more fortunate.

While the games have not lost their spark of interest, it does seem that pre-game and after game parties are diminishing as the fourth successive home game nears, and suburbia is turning its free moments to some other entertainment — from the larger parties, to more intimate family gatherings.

This is especially true when there are relatives visiting from out of town. At the Maple Village home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bardsley, last Sunday evening was a noted occasion for a family get-together.

The guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Patzloff of Holtville, Calif., who are visiting Nebraska with their two children, Michael and Dina, and were the guests of Mr. Patzloff's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Bardsley.

Other dinner guests included Mrs. Bardsley's mother, Mrs. Wayve Patzloff of Ceresco; another brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Patzloff; and two sisters and brothers-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Stewart of Ceresco, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cernik and their daughter, Ellen, of Bellevue.

Later on in the evening, friends dropped by to join the family for cake, ice cream and coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Trumble also hosted guests at their Eastmont home last weekend. One of the visitors was Fred Trumble who makes the trip from Red Oak, Iowa, to his parents' home each football weekend. But last weekend another guest graced the Trumble threshold. Roger Gardner, a friend of Fred Trumble's, flew to Lincoln from his home in New Jersey to see his alma mater, the Universty of Nebraska, steal the game from Texas A & M. During this week, Mr. Gardner is visiting his brother in Omaha, but will return to the Trumble home this weekend for another Nebraska victory — we hope.

Speaking of guests, we have more news this morning of visitors to Lincoln's suburban areas.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Bott welcomed three guests from Denver, Colo., into their Kimballcrest home last weekend — they were Mrs. Bott's brothers, Leldon Wallace and Louis Wallace, and her mother, Mrs. Nettie Wallace.

Before Mrs. Bott's brother departed for their return trip on Sunday, they were treated to a family dinner.

Mrs. Wallace plans to remain in Lincoln for an extended visit.

Mr. Pearle Frey of Kimberly Heights entertained a guest recently — and she also has been kept busy attending dances.

Mrs. Frey's guest was her mother, Mrs. Grace Callahan of Red Cloud, who stayed for a week-long visit with her daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. Charles DeShon, and Mr. DeShon.

The dancing that we referred to included a trip to Omaha and the Polka Days which were held there recently. Accompanying Mrs. Frey to Omaha's Peony Park were Glenn Kollars and Mr. and Mrs. Gib Meier.

The Park Manor home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter VanDeventer has been the destination of several out-of-state guests recently — and the welcome mat will be out again this weekend.

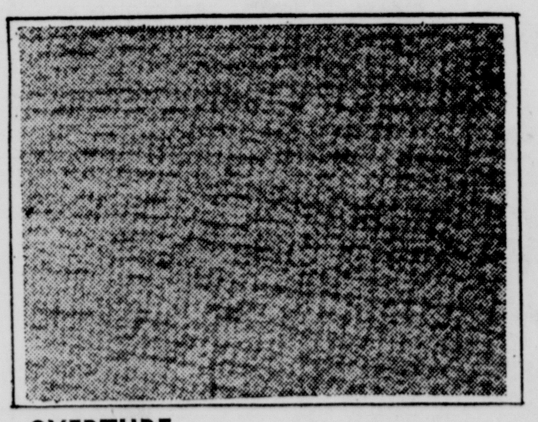

Recent visitors were Mr. VanDeventer's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold VanDeventer of Seattle, Wash., who made several stops in the Midwest.

For example, the Seattle couple went to Stella, where they saw some friends and relatives — and, upon their return to Lincoln, they were the guests of the Ray VanDeventers at a family dinner. The guest list also included the Walter VanDeventers.

NSSBA To Eye School Fund Use Resolution

Members of the Nebraska State School Boards Association will consider a resolution at the annual convention which would put the NSSBA on record opposing "any attempt to amend or circumvent the Nebraska and U.S. Constitutions to permit the use of public funds for the support, either direct or indirect, of nonpublic schools."

The proposal is one of some 17 resolutions to be considered at the association's annual convention in Lincoln Nov. 5.

Another favors repeal of Nebraska's tenure law, and still another "favors legislation removing teacher organizations and school boards from the jurisdiction of the Court of Industrial Relations."

Although the resolution on use of funds does not mention current controversies over administration of federal programs, public school interests have contended that program, which provide services to private school children constitute indirect aid to nonpublic schools.

The current controversy over administration of federal funds for the educationally disadvantaged hinges on a state attorney general ruling that says federal funds passing through the state treasury become subject to state limitations on use of public funds.

Another resolution to be considered at the November meeting refers to the subject, along with revenue-sharing proposals:

"NSSBA supports federal revenue-sharing or block grant programs of which at least 30% would go directly to the public and favors the administration of such funds in such a way as to prevent the circumvention of state or federal constitutional prohibitions against the diversion of public funds to nonpublic schools."

The resolution on tenure says the organization "favors the repeal of Nebraska statutes which provide teacher tenure in school districts of fourth and fifth classes, and further favors the incorporation of the section listing grounds for cancellation of a teacher's contract into LB266, the continuing contract law adopted by the 1971 session of the Legislature."

The Resolution would apparently put Lincoln and Omaha teachers, not covered by the tenure law, under the continuing contract law which covers teachers in other school districts.

The resolution on the Court of Industrial Relations may have been prompted by the number of negotiations cases taken into that court by teacher associations during the past year.

Another of the proposed resolutions supports legislation to provide "state revenues sufficient to provide not less than 50% of the cost of public education" to equalize property tax disparities.

The resolutions were drafted by the NSSBA's committee on resolutions and legislation.

Mrs. Angle To Seek NSSBA Post

Lincoln Board of Education member Catherine Angle will be a candidate for the second vice presidency of the Nebraska State School Boards Association when the NSSBA holds its annual convention this fall.

Mrs. Angle is one of two candidates nominated by the NSSBA's board of directors. The other is Leonard L. Lawrence, a member of the Bellevue school board

Winner of the election in the Lincoln convention Nov. 5 will succeed to the presidency of the organization in 1973-74.

Mrs. Angle is serving her second term as a member of the Lincoln School Board. She serves on committees for the University of Nebraska's NOVA and TTT programs and is active in the Nebraska Art Association and the League of Women Voters.

Lawrence is serving his second term on the Bellevue Board The president of an investment banking firm, he is also director and vice chairman of the Bellevue College Board.

Scheduled for speaking appearances at the NSSBA convention, to be held at the Nebraska Center, are Gov. J. James Exon and NU-Lincoln Teachers College Dean Robert Egbert.

NSSBA To Eye School Fund Use Resolution

Members of the Nebraska State School Boards Association will consider a resolution at the annual convention which would put the NSSBA on record opposing "any attempt to amend or circumvent the Nebraska and U.S. Constitutions to permit the use of public funds for the support, either direct or indirect, of nonpublic schools."

The proposal is one of some 17 resolutions to be considered at the association's annual convention in Lincoln Nov. 5.

Another favors repeal of Nebraska's tenure law, and still another "favors legislation removing teacher organizations and school boards from the jurisdiction of the Court of Industrial Relations."

Although the resolution on use of funds does not mention current controversies over administration of federal programs, public school interests have contended that program, which provide services to private school children constitute indirect aid to nonpublic schools.

The current controversy over administration of federal funds for the educationally disadvantaged hinges on a state attorney general ruling that says federal funds passing through the state treasury become subject to state limitations on use of public funds.

Another resolution to be considered at the November meeting refers to the subject, along with revenue-sharing proposals:

"NSSBA supports federal revenue-sharing or block grant programs of which at least 30% would go directly to the public and favors the administration of such funds in such a way as to prevent the circumvention of state or federal constitutional prohibitions against the diversion of public funds to nonpublic schools."

The resolution on tenure says the organization "favors the repeal of Nebraska statutes which provide teacher tenure in school districts of fourth and fifth classes, and further favors the incorporation of the section listing grounds for cancellation of a teacher's contract into LB266, the continuing contract law adopted by the 1971 session of the Legislature."

The Resolution would apparently put Lincoln and Omaha teachers, not covered by the tenure law, under the continuing contract law which covers teachers in other school districts.

The resolution on the Court of Industrial Relations may have been prompted by the number of negotiations cases taken into that court by teacher associations during the past year.

Another of the proposed resolutions supports legislation to provide "state revenues sufficient to provide not less than 50% of the cost of public education" to equalize property tax disparities.

The resolutions were drafted by the NSSBA's committee on resolutions and legislation.

Hunting And Fishing Mixed

The ideal trip for an outdoorsman is one where he can combine both hunting and fishing with little trouble reaching prime hunting and fishing spots.

During the grouse season in the Sandhills, that dream can be realized. And when duck and goose season opens, the pleasure is compounded.

In the early-morning, a hunter can go after ducks, then switch to grouse in the afternoon and top off the day with a squirrel hunt with a little bass or pike action in the waning hours

Most of the lakes in the Sandhills are in topnotch sharptail country so it's fairly easy to combine both duck and grouse hunting in one day.

And several of the lakes have small wooded shelter belts at the end that provide good squirrel shooting.

Then towards evening, one can put the shotgun away and draw out the fishing tackle and head for the shoreline to fish just off reeded areas with red and white spoons to catch bass for the morning breakfast

Camping Out Preferable

Of course, the pleasure is heightened if you're camping out at the time. The cool, brisk evenings are the medicine that proves most refreshing to any outdoorsman, and the chance to catch one's own breakfast besides shooting supper and dinner shouldn't be missed if at all possible.

Most of the lakes are on private land, but several of the ranchers in the Sandhills will let you hunt on their land and there's good hunting on public land west and south of Valentine.

Long Lake, 20 miles southwest of Johnstown, offers good shooting and the public land surrounding the shore has some sharptails in it

Ballards Marsh, 20 miles south of Valentine on Highway 83, Big Alkali Lake, and the southwestern end of Merritt Reservoir also provide good shooting and excellent angling at Merritt

Check Those Plum Thickets

Grouse are unpredictable in their habits. What works one day will be completely useless the next

But a good rule of the thumb is to carefully check plum thickets and any grassy pockets on the windward side for loafers.

Of course, the hunter without a dog would have a little more luck in hunting these areas Especially if you're checking for singles.

For geese, most of the early shooting will go to gunners in the eastern part of the state as blues and snows work their way south.

Regulations for this year's hunt are basically the same as last year's, except in Keith County where hunters will be limited to one Canada instead of two after Dec 1. The portion of the Sandhills bordered by a line running from the South Dakota border south on Highway 27 to Ellsworth, east on Nebraska 2 to Dunning, northeast on 91 to Brewster, north on 7 to Ainsworth, west on U S 20 to Valentine and north on U.S. 83 to the South Dakota border will be closed to the shooting of Canadas and white-fronted geese.

Parker's Prediction Percentage Slips

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

I knew it was too good to last' A week ago the prep picker came up with 110 of 135 correct forecasts on the 11 man games for a fantastic 82 percent

This past weekend there was one more game played, but ten fewer came out on the right side of the ledger. The 91 for 135 figures at a much more normal 68 percent.

The wounded ego is salved to some degree, however, by an improvement in the eight-man ranks Instead of last week's 76 percentage mark on a 29-9 record, the past weekend produced a pleasant 33 correct and just 7 wrong for 82 per cent.

How about this time around?

Lincoln East vs Lincoln High, Seacrest Field, Friday night — The Links have bounced back after an opening loss to record two straight victories. But the Spartans are rolling and may be the best team the state has produced in several years.

Lincoln Northeast vs. Lincoln Pius X, Seacrest Field, Saturday night — Pius may be one of the best Class B teams in the state, despite two losses in a row, but the Rockets, after playing both top ten rated Fremont and Southeast in close ones, are after win No. 1.

Lincoln Southeast at Fremont, Friday night—The defending Class A champs passed a tough test last week in beating Bellevue to move into the No. 2 spot in the Class A top ten. Fremont will be smarting from a defeat at Norfolk. Nearly a tossup.

Knights To Play Exhibition Tilts

Omaha (UPI) — The Omaha Knights will play three exhibition games at the Des Moines ice arena next week.

The Knights will open the regular hockey season Oct. 15, on the road against the Tulsa Oilers. The home opener is Oct. 29 against the Kansas City Blues.

GIANTS, DODGERS FALTER

Dodgers Routed By Astros

Los Angeles (UPI) — Bob Watson and Larry Howard drove in three runs apiece Wednesday night as the Houston Astros exploded a 16-hit attack to defeat the Los Angeles Dodgers 11-0 in the tight National League West championship race.

Despite the loss, the Dodgers remained one game behind the San Francisco Giants who were beaten 4-1 by the San Diego Padres.

With one game to go, the race could be a tie with a playoff required.

Ken Forsch, pitching his first full season in the majors, tamed the Dodgers. His mates jumped on the best Los Angeles had, 20-game winner Al Downing, for four runs in the first and knocked him out of the game in the second inning. Forsch is now 8-8 while Downing took his 10th loss.

It was all downhill for the Dodgers as Watson, Howard and Company found the range of relievers Doyle Alexander and Joe Moeller to run up their 11-0 margin.

In the first inning, Joe Morgan walked and stole second. With two out, Watson singled in Morgan and Jim Wynn followed with a single Jesus Alou then doubled to drive in Watson and Denis Menke walked, loading the bases. Howard singled and Wynn and Alou scored.

Alexander kept the Astros scoreless in the second inning when he took over for Downing and in the third. But in the fourth, after Cesar Cedeno singled, Watson homered into the centerfield stands. It was his ninth of the season

The Astros added two more in the fifth. Menke walked, reached second on a groundout and third on Forsch's second hit of the game. Roger Metzger's grounder scored Menke and Forsch came home on Alexander's throwing error.

The deluge was not over. Watson led off the sixth with a single, taking third on Alou's single and scoring on Menke's grounder. Howard then doubled in Alou

The Astros got their final run in the seventh when Morgan tripled and scored on Cedeno's sacrifice fly.

Glover Maintaining NU Middle Guard Tradition

Nebraska's Rich Glover has a tough act to follow. The Husker junior has inherited the middle guard spot in the Black Shirt defensive unit that has been filled during Nebraska's Devaney era by such all-Big Eight greats as Walt Barnes, Wayne Meylan, Ken Geddes and Eddie Periard.

Glover acknowledges that it's a hard reputation to live up to, but says, "I want to be just as good as they were, maybe a little better."

A letterman from Jersey City, N.J., Glover earned all-state and all-American mention at Henry Snyder High as a two-way tackle. He lettered as a reserve defensive tackle on last year's national championship team, and then was shifted to middle guard during spring practice to fill the vacancy left by Periard's graduation.

"At a tackle spot, I wasn't really tall enough, so they moved me to middle guard," Glover said. "I had some trouble with the pass rush at tackle because of my height, but now I'm getting on guys faster from middle guard and getting into the ball quicker."

The 6-1, 234-pound physical education major in Teachers College has been in on 20 tackles (high on the team) in the Huskers' first three games, a 34-7 win over Oregon, a 35-7 win over Minnesota, and last week's 34-7 victory over Texas A&M. His total includes three stops behind the line of scrimmage.

"I wanted to play big-time ball," Glover said, explaining his choice of Nebraska "I had offers from other schools, but I didn't like their programs as well. There was just something I like about here, like the stadium and the coaches."

"I thought I had a chance to play football here with some of the graduations and openings," he said. "Also, I had never had a chance to get out of the city much at home"

Glover views this year's Husker defense as even tougher than last year's national champions.

"This year we have more depth at more positions and we seem to be stronger and quicker than last year," he said. "I think this year we've got a really good defense."

He said the Black Shirts have a goal this year to "try to keep everybody under seven points. We try to shut them out if we can, but no more than one touchdown for sure."

Huskers Lead In Passing

Kansas City, Mo. — Nebraska's top-ranked football team has been the most effective passing team in the Big Eight this season and also the most effective at stopping the pass.

The Huskers' passing attack, led by quarterback Jerry Tagge's 68 5 per cent completion mark, are averaging 172 3 yards per game through the air while the Black Shirt defensive unit has yielded only 97.3 yards passing to three opponents.

Nebraska also is No. 1 in the league in scoring defense with an average of only seven points per game scored against the Black Shirts.

SF Falls In Extra Innings

San Diego (AP) — Nate Colbert blasted his 27th home run of the season, a three-run shot in the bottom of the 10th inning, giving the San Diego Padres a 4-1 victory over San Francisco Wednesday night, stalling the Giants' bid for the National League West Division title.

The Giants had started the game one game in front of the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers with two games remaining.

Colbert's drive came off losing reliever Jerry Johnson, 12-9, and followed a leadoff single by Tommy Dean, a force out by Don Mason, and an error by second baseman Tito Fuentes.

Fuentes dropped a throw from shortstop Chris Speier on a grounder by John Jeter.

Clay Kirby went the distance for the Padres and won his 15th game against 13 losses. The 15 victories are the most by a San Diego pitcher in the team's history. He allowed the Giants only seven hits.

The Giants tied the score 1-1 in the seventh inning after Ken Henderson led off with a single and Fuentes sacrificed him to second Kirby struck out Willie Mays, then intentionally walked Willie McCovey.

Rookie Dave Kingman, who had replaced the injured Bobby Bonds in the sixth inning, followed with a single, driving in Henderson with the tying run.

NU Stresses Short Yardage Defense

. . . SUCCESS PSYCHOLOGICAL FRAME OF MIND

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska's football team continued to stress its short yardage defenses Wednesday and head coach Bob Devaney offered that it was as much a psychological as a physical thing

The Huskers went "live" on the short yardage defenses for the second night in a row and Devaney figured it was "making them more conscious of what we want.

"In short yardage or goal line defenses, there is often a feeling of, 'If we stop them, that's fine, but if we don't, we'll get to receive the kickoff and let the offense get the six points back.'

"Much of the success or failure in short yardage situations is a frame of mind"

The Husker coach also pointed to a couple of other psychological factors involved in short yardage situations.

"A team can build up pride in being able to stop an opponent on short yardage or near the goal line," he pointed out. "And for an offense, there's nothing more frustrating than marching all the way down the field only to be stopped at the goal line.

"That's demoralizing to a team and can provide a big lift to the team making the stop."

But there's also one danger in stressing short yardage defense, Devaney noted.

"You've got to be careful that the other team doesn't hit you with a long bomb," he added. "This is particularly true if they have good field position or if on a third down, they're inside your 35 where they wouldn't have to punt and would have a fourth down to use if the bomb attempt failed."

Previously in short yardage situations, the Husker coach has made a couple of substitutions to get bigger men into the line, but this week the Huskers are working on doing it with regular personnel

"If you insert players, it can be a tipoff to the opponent that you're in a short yardage defense and that's when they're apt to try to hit the bomb on you."

The Huskers Wednesday had the services again of I-back Jeff Kinney and defensive back Joe Blahak and Devaney said both should be ready to go Saturday against Utah State.

Kinney was hospitalized Monday for tests and worked only in sweat clothes Tuesday while Blahak missed Tuesday's drill with the flu.

Huskers Again

For the fourth straight week, all three collegiate football forecasters for the two major wire services have tabbed Nebraska to keep its unbeaten string alive.

The Associated Press' Will Grimsley sees a 33-14 NU victory, commenting, "The Aggies' Tony Adams can harass the nation's No. 1 but can't derail it"

The AP's Herschell Nissenson also picks the Huskers as does United Press International's Charlie Smith, Smith by 35-7 with the comment, "Five touchdowns to one is the Cornhusker formula"

Tagge Ranks 11th

Nebraska quarterback Jerry Tagge ranks 11th nationally in total offense, according to NCAA statistics, with an average of 193 3 yards per game, only two-tenths of a yard out of 10th place.

The nation's total offense leader is Rod Plummer of Princeton, averaging 307 yards per contest.

Colorado's Charlie Davis and Iowa State's George Amundson rank 10th and 11th, respectively, in rushing offense with averages of 139 3 and 138.5, respectively.

Rule Violation Causes Forfeit

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri State High School Activities Association announced Wednesday Cameron High School must forfeit its Sept 10 football game against Gallatin because of a rule violation.

Cameron was found to have used a player who had not completed the required 15 days of practice before his first game.

Cameron won the game, 90-0.

Rockets Seeking First Win At Fremont

By STEVE GILLISPIE

Fremont — The Denver Rockets will be seeking their first win in the American Basketball Association's exhibition season here Thursday night at 8 in the Frank Hopkins physical complex

The Rockets fell to the ABA champion Utah Stars, 114-99, Sunday afternoon in Grand Junction, Colo. and to the NBA Detroit Pistons, 123-119, Monday night in Denver. Denver will face the Miami, Floridians, who won their first exhibition, 96-88, over Baltimore of the NBA, in Thursday night's contest.

Among the three rookies who have impressed new Rocket head coach Alex Hannum is Kansas graduate Dave Robisch.

When the 6-10½ Robisch takes the floor Thursday night he'll be facing 6-7, 1967 Kansas graduate Ron Franz of the Floridians. Other top players for Miami will be 6-9 Ira Harge, 6-0 Mack Calvin and 6-3 Larry Jones.

Joining Robisch will be 6-8 Utah State rookie Marvin Roberts and 6-1 rookie Al Smith of Bradley.

Some of the veteran Rockets who will be in action will be 6-10 Jules Keye, 6-5 Julie Hammond, 6-9 Byron Beck, 6-5 Larry Cannon and 5-9 Larry Brown. Brown as the shortest player in the ABA last year

Cannon averaged 26 6 points and 5 2 assists last year for the Rockets and was the team leader in both categories. He also was an all-star selection

Keye placed second in the league in rebounds with a 17.5 average and his 1,454 season total was just 19 behind ABA leader Mel Daniels of Indiana.

Countering for Miami will be all-league guard Calvin and former Rocket guard Larry Jones. Harge is expected to battle Keye under the boards for rebounds

Hannum comes to Denver as general manager and coach after coaching the NBA's San Diego Rockets, who have since moved to Houston, last year.

The immediate goal of the Rockets is "to put together an exciting, winning team in the ABA this season and make the playoffs" according to Hannum. The future goal of Hannum for his team is to be able to beat any team in professional basketball in three years.

In 1966-67 Hannum guided the NBA Philadelphia 76ers to an all-time win record of 68-13 and two years later he coached the ABA's Oakland Oaks to a 60-18 mark also a league record.

He also is the only man to coach championship teams in both the NBA and ABA.

Hunting And Fishing Mixed

The ideal trip for an outdoorsman is one where he can combine both hunting and fishing with little trouble reaching prime hunting and fishing spots.

During the grouse season in the Sandhills, that dream can be realized. And when duck and goose season opens, the pleasure is compounded.

In the early-morning, a hunter can go after ducks, then switch to grouse in the afternoon and top off the day with a squirrel hunt with a little bass or pike action in the waning hours.

Most of the lakes in the Sandhills are in topnotch sharptail country so it's fairly easy to combine both duck and grouse hunting in one day.

And several of the lakes have small wooded shelter belts at the end that provide good squirrel shooting.

Then towards evening, one can put the shotgun away and draw out the fishing tackle and head for the shoreline to fish just off reeded areas with red and white spoons to catch bass for the morning breakfast.

Camping Out Preferable

Of course, the pleasure is heightened if you're camping out at the time. The cool, brisk evenings are the medicine that proves most refreshing to any outdoorsman, and the chance to catch one's own breakfast besides shooting supper and dinner shouldn't be missed if at all possible.

Most of the lakes are on private land, but several of the ranchers in the Sandhills will let you hunt on their land and there's good hunting on public land west and south of Valentine.

Long Lake, 20 miles southwest of Johnstown, offers good shooting and the public land surrounding the shore has some sharptails in it.

Ballards Marsh, 20 miles south of Valentine on Highway 83, Big Alkali Lake, and the southwestern end of Merritt Reservoir also provide good shooting and excellent angling at Merritt.

Check Those Plum Thickets

Grouse are unpredictable in their habits. What works one day will be completely useless the next.

But a good rule of the thumb is to carefully check plum thickets and any grassy pockets on the windward side for loafers.

Of course, the hunter without a dog would have a little more luck in hunting these areas. Especially if you're checking for singles.

For geese, most of the early shooting will go to gunners in the eastern part of the state as blues and snows work their way south.

Regulations for this year's hunt are basically the same as last year's, except in Keith County where hunters will be limited to one Canada instead of two after Dec. 1. The portion of the Sandhills bordered by a line running from the South Dakota border south on Highway 27 to Ellsworth, east on Nebraska 2 to Dunning, northeast on 91 to Brewster, north on 7 to Ainsworth, west on U.S. 20 to Valentine and north on U.S. 83 to the South Dakota border will be closed to the shooting of Canadas and white-fronted geese.

Parker's Prediction Percentage Slips

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

I knew it was too good to last! A week ago the prep picker came up with 110 of 135 correct forecasts on the 11 man games for a fantastic 82 percent.

This past weekend there was one more game played, but ten fewer came out on the right side of the ledger. The 91 for 135 figures at a much more normal 68 percent.

The wounded ego is salved to some degree, however, by an improvement in the eight-man ranks. Instead of last week's 76 percentage mark on a 29-9 record, the past weekend produced a pleasant 33 correct and just 7 wrong for 82 per cent.

How about this time around?

Lincoln East vs. Lincoln High, Seacrest Field, Friday night — The Links have bounced back after an opening loss to record two straight victories. But the Spartans are rolling and may be the best team the state has produced in several years.

Lincoln Northeast vs. Lincoln Pius X, Seacrest Field, Saturday night — Pius may be one of the best Class B teams in the state, despite two losses in a row, but the Rockets, after playing both top ten rated Fremont and Southeast in close ones, are after win No. 1.

Lincoln Southeast at Fremont, Friday night—The defending Class A champs passed a tough test last week in beating Bellevue to move into the No. 2 spot in the Class A top ten. Fremont will be smarting from a defeat at Norfolk. Nearly a tossup.

GIANTS, DODGERS FALTER

Dodgers Routed By Astros

Los Angeles (UPI) — Bob Watson and Larry Howard drove in three runs apiece Wednesday night as the Houston Astros exploded a 16-hit attack to defeat the Los Angeles Dodgers 11-0 in the tight National League West championship race.

Despite the loss, the Dodgers remained one game behind the San Francisco Giants who were beaten 4-1 by the San Diego Padres.

With one game to go, the race could be a tie with a playoff required.

Ken Forsch, pitching his first full season in the majors, tamed the Dodgers. His mates jumped on the best Los Angeles had, 20-game winner Al Downing, for four runs in the first and knocked him out of the game in the second inning. Forsch is now 8-8 while Downing took his 10th loss.

It was all downhill for the Dodgers as Watson, Howard and Company found the range of relievers Doyle Alexander and Joe Moeller to run up their 11-0 margin.

In the first inning, Joe Morgan walked and stole second. With two out, Watson singled in Morgan and Jim Wynn followed with a single. Jesus Alou then doubled to drive in Watson and Denis Menke walked, loading the bases. Howard singled and Wynn and Alou scored.

Alexander kept the Astros scoreless in the second inning when he took over for Downing and in the third. But in the fourth, after Cesar Cedeno singled, Watson homered into the centerfield stands. It was his ninth of the season.

The Astros added two more in the fifth. Menke walked, reached second on a groundout and third on Forsch's second hit of the game. Roger Metzger's grounder scored Menke and Forsch came home on Alexander's throwing error.

The deluge was not over. Watson led off the sixth with a single, taking third on Alou's single and scoring on Menke's grounder. Howard then doubled in Alou.

The Astros got their final run in the seventh when Morgan tripled and scored on Cedeno's sacrifice fly.

Glover Maintaining NU Middle Guard Tradition

Nebraska's Rich Glover has a tough act to follow. The Husker junior has inherited the middle guard spot in the Black Shirt defensive unit that has been filled during Nebraska's Devaney era by such all-Big Eight greats as Walt Barnes, Wayne Meylan, Ken Geddes and Eddie Periard.

Glover acknowledges that it's a hard reputation to live up to, but says, "I want to be just as good as they were, maybe a little better."

A letterman from Jersey City, N.J., Glover earned all-state and all-American mention at Henry Snyder High as a two-way tackle. He lettered as a reserve defensive tackle on last year's national championship team, and then was shifted to middle guard during spring practice to fill the vacancy left by Periard's graduation.

"At a tackle spot, I wasn't really tall enough, so they moved me to middle guard," Glover said. "I had some trouble with the pass rush at tackle because of my height, but now I'm getting on guys faster from middle guard and getting into the ball quicker."

The 6-1, 234-pound physical education major in Teachers College has been in on 20 tackles (high on the team) in the Huskers' first three games, a 34-7 win over Oregon, a 35-7 win over Minnesota, and last week's 34-7 victory over Texas A&M. His total includes three stops behind the line of scrimmage.

"I wanted to play big-time ball," Glover said, explaining his choice of Nebraska. "I had offers from other schools, but I didn't like their programs as well. There was just something I like about here, like the stadium and the coaches."

"I thought I had a chance to play football here with some of the graduations and openings," he said. "Also, I had never had a chance to get out of the city much at home."

Glover views this year's Husker defense as even tougher than last year's national champions.

"This year we have more depth at more positions and we seem to be stronger and quicker than last year," he said. "I think this year we've got a really good defense."

He said the Black Shirts have a goal this year to "try to keep everybody under seven points. We try to shut them out if we can, but no more than one touchdown for sure."

Huskers Lead In Passing

Kansas City, Mo. — Nebraska's top-ranked football team has been the most effective passing team in the Big Eight this season and also the most effective at stopping the pass.

The Huskers' passing attack, led by quarterback Jerry Tagge's 68.5 per cent completion mark, are averaging 172.3 yards per game through the air while the Black Shirt defensive unit has yielded only 97.3 yards passing to three opponents.

Nebraska also is No. 1 in the league in scoring defense with an average of only seven points per game scored against the Black Shirts.

SF Falls In Extra Innings

San Diego (AP) — Nate Colbert blasted his 27th home run of the season, a three-run shot in the bottom of the 10th inning, giving the San Diego Padres a 4-1 victory over San Francisco Wednesday night, stalling the Giants' bid for the National League West Division title.

The Giants had started the game one game in front of the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers with two games remaining.

Colbert's drive came off losing reliever Jerry Johnson, 12-9, and followed a leadoff single by Tommy Dean, a force out by Don Mason, and an error by second baseman Tito Fuentes.

Fuentes dropped a throw from shortstop Chris Speier on a grounder by John Jeter.

Clay Kirby went the distance for the Padres and won his 15th game against 13 losses. The 15 victories are the most by a San Diego pitcher in the team's history. He allowed the Giants only seven hits.

The Giants tied the score 1-1 in the seventh inning after Ken Henderson led off with a single and Fuentes sacrificed him to second. Kirby struck out Willie Mays, then intentionally walked Willie McCovey.

Rookie Dave Kingman, who had replaced the injured Bobby Bonds in the sixth inning, followed with a single, driving in Henderson with the tying run.

NU Stresses Short Yardage Defense

. . . SUCCESS PSYCHOLOGICAL FRAME OF MIND

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska's football team continued to stress its short yardage defenses Wednesday and head coach Bob Devaney offered that it was as much a psychological as a physical thing.

The Huskers went "live" on the short yardage defenses for the second night in a row and Devaney figured it was "making them more conscious of what we want.

"In short yardage or goal line defenses, there is often a feeling of, 'If we stop them, that's fine, but if we don't, we'll get to receive the kickoff and let the offense get the six points back.'

"Much of the success or failure in short yardage situations is a frame of mind."

The Husker coach also pointed to a couple of other psychological factors involved in short yardage situations.

"A team can build up pride in being able to stop an opponent on short yardage or near the goal line," he pointed out. "And for an offense, there's nothing more frustrating than marching all the way down the field only to be stopped at the goal line.

"That's demoralizing to a team and can provide a big lift to the team making the stop."

But there's also one danger in stressing short yardage defense, Devaney noted.

"You've got to be careful that the other team doesn't hit you with a long bomb," he added. "This is particularly true if they have good field position or if on a third down, they're inside your 35 where they wouldn't have to punt and would have a fourth down to use if the bomb attempt failed."

Previously in short yardage situations, the Husker coach has made a couple of substitutions to get bigger men into the line, but this week the Huskers are working on doing it with regular personnel.

"If you insert players, it can be a tipoff to the opponent that you're in a short yardage defense and that's when they're apt to try to hit the bomb on you."

The Huskers Wednesday had the services again of I-back Jeff Kinney and defensive back Joe Blahak and Devaney said both should be ready to go Saturday against Utah State.

Kinney was hospitalized Monday for tests and worked only in sweat clothes Tuesday while Blahak missed Tuesday's drill with the flu.

Huskers Again

For the fourth straight week, all three collegiate football forecasters for the two major wire services have tabbed Nebraska to keep its unbeaten string alive.

The Associated Press' Will Grimsley sees a 33-14 NU victory, commenting, "The Aggies' Tony Adams can harass the nation's No. 1 but can't derail it."

The AP's Herschell Nissenson also picks the Huskers as does United Press International's Charlie Smith, Smith by 35-7 with the comment, "Five touchdowns to one is the Cornhusker formula."

Tagge Ranks 11th

Nebraska quarterback Jerry Tagge ranks 11th nationally in total offense, according to NCAA statistics, with an average of 193.3 yards per game, only two-tenths of a yard out of 10th place.

The nation's total offense leader is Rod Plummer of Princeton, averaging 307 yards per contest.

Colorado's Charlie Davis and Iowa State's George Amundson rank 10th and 11th, respectively, in rushing offense with averages of 139.3 and 138.5, respectively.

Rule Violation Causes Forfeit

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri State High School Activities Association announced Wednesday Cameron High School must forfeit its Sept. 10 football game against Gallatin because of a rule violation.

Cameron was found to have used a player who had not completed the required 15 days of practice before his first game.

Cameron won the game, 90-0.

Rockets Seeking First Win At Fremont

By STEVE GILLISPIE

Fremont — The Denver Rockets will be seeking their first win in the American Basketball Association's exhibition season here Thursday night at 8 in the Frank Hopkins physical complex.

The Rockets fell to the ABA champion Utah Stars, 114-99, Sunday afternoon in Grand Junction, Colo. and to the NBA Detroit Pistons, 123-119, Monday night in Denver. Denver will face the Miami, Floridians, who won their first exhibition, 96-88, over Baltimore of the NBA, in Thursday night's contest.

Among the three rookies who have impressed new Rocket head coach Alex Hannum is Kansas graduate Dave Robisch.

When the 6-10½ Robisch takes the floor Thursday night he'll be facing 6-7, 1967 Kansas graduate Ron Franz of the Floridians. Other top players for Miami will be 6-9 Ira Harge, 6-0 Mack Calvin and 6-3 Larry Jones.

Joining Robisch will be 6-8 Utah State rookie Marvin Roberts and 6-1 rookie Al Smith of Bradley.

Some of the veteran Rockets who will be in action will be 6-10 Julies Keye, 6-5 Julie Hammond, 6-9 Byron Beck, 6-5 Larry Cannon and 5-9 Larry Brown. Brown as the shortest player in the ABA last year.

Cannon averaged 26.6 points and 5.2 assists last year for the Rockets and was the team leader in both categories. He also was an all-star selection.

Keye placed second in the league in rebounds with a 17.5 average and his 1,454 season total was just 19 behind ABA leader Mel Daniels of Indiana.

Countering for Miami will be all-league guard Calvin and former Rocket guard Larry Jones. Harge is expected to battle Keye under the boards for rebounds.

Hannum comes to Denver as general manager and coach after coaching the NBA's San Diego Rockets, who have since moved to Houston, last year.

The immediate goal of the Rockets is "to put together an exciting, winning team in the ABA this season and make the playoffs" according to Hannum. The future goal of Hannum for his team is to be able to beat any team in professional basketball in three years.

In 1966-67 Hannum guided the NBA Philadelphia 76ers to an all-time win record of 68-13 and two years later he coached the ABA's Oakland Oaks to a 60-18 mark also a league record.

He also is the only man to coach championship teams in both the NBA and ABA.

Aquinas Gridder Hospitalized

John Selzer of Bellwood remained in Lincoln General Hospital Wednesday for treatment of neck injuries sustained in a Monday night reserve football game between David City Aquinas and Columbus Lakeview.

The youth, a sophomore, reportedly sustained a fractured vertebra. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Selzer.

NWU Hosts Harriers

Nebraska Wesleyan University will play host to its ninth annual high school cross country invitational Thursday.

The "short" two-mile course at Seacrest Field will be the location and starting time is 4 p.m.

Lincoln Northeast is the defending champion, but three of the Rockets which made last year's team a winner are now freshman at Wesleyan. Included in the group is record holder Ron Greeno who set the 9:26 meet standard.

Junior John Gulich of Southeast has already reduced that time this year over the same layout and is expected to lead his Knights to the team title.

Individually Gulich can expect plenty of competition from Grand Island's Bob Happold. Other schools entered include Lincoln High, Lincoln East, Hastings and Kearney.

The winning team will be presented a trophy by NWU athletic director and cross country coach Woody Greeno. The top 15 runners will receive medals.

Bowman Meeting Set

The Prairie Bowmen club meeting will be held Oct. 1 at 8 p.m. at the indoor range. NFAA rules for indoor meets will be discussed at the meeting and nominations will be taken for board representatives.

Big 8 Football Briefs

Iowa State

Ames, Iowa (AP) — Three Iowa State Football players, offense guards Mike Terrizzi and Ray Harm and defensive tackle Bob Martinson, returned to practice Wednesday after missing Tuesday's workout.

Terrizzi worked out only lightly Wednesday but the other two took part in the 90-minute no-contact session. Harm and Terrizzi had been sidelined with a virus while Martinson was recovering from a sprained ankle.

Kansas State

Manhattan, Kan. (AP) — Kansas State football Coach Vince Gibson wasn't in the best of spirits following the Wildcats' workout Wednesday in preparation for this weekend's meeting with Colorado.

"We had a very poor practice," Gibson said. "If we want to compete against Colorado, we'll have to be a lot more dedicated than we have been this week.

"I really feel Colorado will come out throwing, and that's what concerns me. If they work their passing game a lot, I really don't know how we'll stop them."

Kansas

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Coach Don Fambrough put the Kansas football team through almost two hours of practice Wednesday with the majority of the time spent on offense.

Fambrough said defensive end Eddie Sheets is definitely out again this week with an injured ankle. Bobby Childs, who missed a couple of days of practice due to an asthma attack, was back but still weak and slowed down.

Oklahoma State

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — Junior Tommy Woods claimed the No. 1 spot at fullback and tight end Charley Beall returned to the practice field for the first time since preseason as Oklahoma State went through a controlled contact session.

Woods earned his spot on the starting unit with a 34-yard rushing performance in the first half of OSU's victory over Virginia Tech last Saturday. He replaced sophomore Cleveland Vann who ran with the alternate unit.

Beall, injured in preseason drills and who underwent corrective surgery, was expected to be ready for the Texas Christian game Oct. 9.

Colorado

Boulder, Colo. (AP) — Coach Eddie Crowder warned his University of Colorado football squad Kansas State would offer a severe defensive challenge when the two teams meet here Saturday in the Buffs' Big Eight opener.

"They are extremely large and a very physical team," Crowder said. "They have two of the finest linebackers in College football in Keith Best and Joe Colquitt."

The Buffs ran through a 90-minute practice session. The only player not in pads was linebacker Billie Drake, who is recovering from a shoulder injury.

Oklahoma

Norman, Okla. (AP) — University of Oklahoma football Coach Chuck Fairbanks put his team through its final contact drills before Saturday's clash here with Southern California.

Fairbanks said Thursday's session would "be shortened up considerably."

The Sooners worked again on Southern Cal offensive and defensive plays and spent a long period on their own kicking game.

Missouri

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — Coach Al Onofrio made a change in the Missouri inner defense as the Tigers continued preparations for Saturday's football game against Army.

Onofrio installed Bob Orsi as No. 1 defensive guard ahead of Larry Frost, starter in the Tigers' first three games this season. Both are sophomores.

Aquinas Gridder Hospitalized

John Selzer of Bellwood remained in Lincoln General Hospital Wednesday for treatment of neck injuries sustained in a Monday night reserve football game between David City Aquinas and Columbus Lakeview.

The youth, a sophomore, reportedly sustained a fractured vertebra. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Selzer.

NU Slips Concordia

Ranee Klatchka, Ertle Berkemeier, and Carol Meyerhoff each scored a goal in leading the University of Nebraska field hockey team to a 3-0 win over Concordia Wednesday.

State Match Reset

Wahoo — High winds postponed the Nebraska Parachute Championships Saturday until Oct. 9 at the Wahoo airport.

NWU Hosts Harriers

Nebraska Wesleyan University will play host to its ninth annual high school cross country invitational Thursday.

The "short" two-mile course at Seacrest Field will be the location and starting time is 4 p.m.

Lincoln Northeast is the defending champion, but three of the Rockets which made last year's team a winner are now freshman at Wesleyan. Included in the group is record holder Ron Greeno who set the 9:26 meet standard.

Junior John Gulich of Southeast has already reduced that time this year over the same layout and is expected to lead his Knights to the team title.

Individually Gulich can expect plenty of competition from Grand Island's Bob Happold. Other schools entered include Lincoln High, Lincoln East, Hastings and Kearney.

The winning team will be presented a trophy by NWU athletic director and cross country coach Woody Greeno. The top 15 runners will receive medals.

Bowman Meeting Set

The Prairie Bowmen club meeting will be held Oct. 1 at 8 p.m. at the indoor range. NFAA rules for indoor meets will be discussed at the meeting and nominations will be taken for board representatives.

Big 8 Football Briefs

Iowa State

Ames, Iowa (AP) — Three Iowa State Football players, offense guards Mike Terrizzi and Ray Harm and defensive tackle Bob Martinson, returned to practice Wednesday after missing Tuesday's workout.

Terrizzi worked out only lightly Wednesday but the other two took part in the 90-minute no-contact session. Harm and Terrizzi had been sidelined with a virus while Martinson was recovering from a sprained ankle.

Kansas State

Manhattan, Kan. (AP) — Kansas State football Coach Vince Gibson wasn't in the best of spirits following the Wildcats' workout Wednesday in preparation for this weekend's meeting with Colorado.

"We had a very poor practice," Gibson said. "If we want to compete against Colorado, we'll have to be a lot more dedicated than we have been this week.

"I really feel Colorado will come out throwing, and that's what concerns me. If they work their passing game a lot, I really don't know how we'll stop them."

Kansas

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Coach Don Fambrough put the Kansas football team through almost two hours of practice Wednesday with the majority of the time spent on offense.

Fambrough said defensive end Eddie Sheets is definitely out again this week with an injured ankle. Bobby Childs, who missed a couple of days of practice due to an asthma attack, was back but still weak and slowed down.

Oklahoma State

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — Junior Tommy Woods claimed the No. 1 spot at fullback and tight end Charley Beall returned to the practice field for the first time since preseason as Oklahoma State went through a controlled contact session.

Woods earned his spot on the starting unit with a 34-yard rushing performance in the first half of OSU's victory over Virginia Tech last Saturday. He replaced sophomore Cleveland Vann who ran with the alternate unit.

Beall, injured in preseason drills and who underwent corrective surgery, was expected to be ready for the Texas Christian game Oct. 9.

Colorado

Boulder, Colo. (AP) — Coach Eddie Crowder warned his University of Colorado football squad Kansas State would offer a severe defensive challenge when the two teams meet here Saturday in the Buffs' Big Eight opener.

"They are extremely large and a very physical team," Crowder said. "They have two of the finest linebackers in College football in Keith Best and Joe Colquitt."

The Buffs ran through a 90-minute practice session. The only player not in pads was linebacker Billie Drake, who is recovering from a shoulder injury.

Oklahoma

Norman, Okla. (AP) — University of Oklahoma football Coach Chuck Fairbanks put his team through its final contact drills before Saturday's clash here with Southern California.

Fairbanks said Thursday's session would "be shortened up considerably."

The Sooners worked again on Southern Cal offensive and defensive plays and spent a long period on their own kicking game.

Missouri

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — Coach Al Onofrio made a change in the Missouri inner defense as the Tigers continued preparations for Saturday's football game against Army.

Onofrio installed Bob Orsi as No. 1 defensive guard ahead of Larry Frost, starter in the Tigers' first three games this season. Both are sophomores.

McLaughlin Becomes Greatest Plainsman Pass Receiver

Senior John McLaughlin is the greatest pass receiver in Nebraska Wesleyan University history.

This fact was established through records he set in only two years of competition during his sophomore and junior years.

What is even more encouraging now is a look at the 1971 figures he is putting into the record book.

In just three games this Plus X product has now caught 18 passes for 236 yards and six touchdowns.

This is about a season's work since last year in 19 games McLaughlin caught an identical 18 passes for 326 yards and only two scores.

As "Big Mac" became Wesleyan's leading career record holder last season he didn't even lead that category on a team basis.

He trailed both Rick Boals (22) and James Ellis (21) in NWU receptions last year. However John's 18 added to his record as a sophomore gave him the school record of 56.

During that sophomore campaign McLaughlin snagged 10 aerials against Missouri Valley for a single game record. He came close to that feat again last week with nine catches against Missouri Western. Ironically both marks came on the road and in the state of Missouri.

John is nearing the 1,000 yard mark now with his 74 grabs. He has 968 yards and 12 touchdowns. He is sure to rank high in the final point production totals in Wesleyan history. That leader is Tom Stootsberry with 132 followed by Dwight Tietjen with 96, Mike Kemling 90 and Bill Rohrig 86

Injuries, Flu Plague Plainsmen Grid Camp

The flu and injuries Tuesday continued to plague Nebraska Wesleyan University's football camp.

Running back Lonnie Tapp, the leading rusher in last week's 30-14 win over Missouri Western, missed his second straight practice. He's taking whirlpool treatments for a bruised leg.

Lincoln senior running back Bob Gill, who missed the Missouri Western game because of a leg injury, returned to practice Tuesday, but is not running at full speed, according to Plainsmen coach Harold Chaffee.

The flu took its toll on at least six players, including quarterback Dave McGrane as only 32 players were in gear.

Offensive tackle starter Dennis Butler was among other flu cases, which also hit four of the Plainsmen's six linebackers — starters Joe Gleason and Bill Ashburn and Aaron Gruber and Dan Noble.

Chaffee, who claims Darrell Wubbels "is my only healthy running back," has been working backup quarterback Ross Stephenson and Grand Island sophomore Gene Boeka at fullback for Saturday's home game against Austin, Tex.

McLaughlin Becomes Greatest Plainsman Pass Receiver

Senior John McLaughlin is the greatest pass receiver in Nebraska Wesleyan University history.

This fact was established through records he set in only two years of competition during his sophomore and junior years.

What is even more encouraging now is a look at the 1971 figures he is putting into the record book.

In just three games this Pius X product has now caught 18 passes for 236 yards and six touchdowns.

This is about a season's work since last year in 19 games McLaughlin caught an identical 18 passes for 326 yards and only two scores.

As "Big Mac" became Wesleyan's leading career record holder last season he didn't even lead that category on a team basis.

He trailed both Rick Boals (22) and James Ellis (21) in NWU receptions last year. However John's 18 added to his record as a sophomore gave him the school record of 56.

During that sophomore campaign McLaughlin snagged 10 aerials against Missouri Valley for a single game record. He came close to that feat again last week with nine catches against Missouri Western. Ironically both marks came on the road and in the state of Missouri.

John is nearing the 1,000 yard mark now with his 74 grabs. He has 968 yards and 12 touchdowns. He is sure to rank high in the final point production totals in Wesleyan history. That leader is Tom Stootsberry with 132 followed by Dwight Tietjen with 96, Mike Kemling 90 and Bill Rohrig 86.

Injuries, Flu Plague Plainsmen Grid Camp

The flu and injuries Tuesday continued to plague Nebraska Wesleyan University's football camp.

Running back Lonnie Tapp, the leading rusher in last week's 30-14 win over Missouri Western, missed his second straight practice. He's taking whirlpool treatments for a bruised leg.

Lincoln senior running back Bob Gill, who missed the Missouri Western game because of a leg injury, returned to practice Tuesday, but is not running at full speed, according to Plainsmen coach Harold Chaffee.

The flu took its toll on at least six players, including quarterback Dave McGrane as only 32 players were in gear.

Offensive tackle starter Dennis Butler was among other flu cases, which also hit four of the Plainsmen's six linebackers — starters Joe Gleason and Bill Ashburn and Aaron Gruber and Dan Noble.

Chaffee, who claims Darrell Wubbels "is my only healthy running back," has been working backup quarterback Ross Stephenson and Grand Island sophomore Gene Boeka at fullback for Saturday's home game against Austin, Tex.

City To Take Over Minibuses Friday

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf signed the executive order approving the purchase of the four minibuses from the National Bank of Commerce for $11,500 per bus

According to City Attorney Richard Wood, the federal grant application allowed $40,000 for purchase of the buses but that the bank has agreed to wait for the additional $6,000 for 60 days within which the city anticipates getting approval of the change in the budget.

Wood said that the city felt that the $11,500 was a fair price in that it allowed for 36% depreciation on the two-year-old buses which cost the Lincoln Center Service Co $18,000 each

He said that the Yellow Cab Co which has operated the line since it was started in the fall of 1969, will continue operation until the city assumes the operation on Friday

According to the personnel department, two of the present minibus drivers employed by the cab company have made application for employment with the city for operation of the buses and will have interviews Thursday with City Transportation General Manager Jerald Rae.

Woods said that it was his understanding that some of the older city bus drivers in terms of seniority may also be given the option of operating minibuses

Wood also said that he anticipates word from the federal government within the next two weeks on approval of the federal funding of the bus system.

A letter was sent this week by Mayor Schwartzkopf to the Urban Mass Transportation administrator in Washington, D.C., seeking to amend the bus project budget of the city since the low bid received for the 36 45-passenger air-conditioned buses was $99,298 more than the city had estimated.

The letter asked that the following deletions be made from the original budget: installation of bus stop signs, $6 000, deletion of shop and garage equipment, $25,000; amount to be taken from contingency fund, $51,916, and the difference between the estimated amount for acquiring the Lincoln City Lines and the amount of purchase $16,382

The total of these deletions amounts to the $99,298 more needed to pay for the buses under the submitted low bid

In the mayor's letter, it was also stated that the city, in the near future, will make a further request for amending the grant contract to reinclude these items which are being deleted due to the excess cost for coaches.

City To Take Over Minibuses Friday

The City of Lincoln will take over operation of the mini-bus system in downtown Lincoln beginning Friday.

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf signed the executive order approving the purchase of the four minibuses from the National Bank of Commerce for $11,500 per bus.

According to City Attorney Richard Wood, the federal grant application allowed $40,000 for purchase of the buses but that the bank has agreed to wait for the additional $6,000 for 60 days within which the city anticipates getting approval of the change in the budget.

Wood said that the city felt that the $11,500 was a fair price in that it allowed for 36% depreciation on the two-year-old buses which cost the Lincoln Center Service Co. $18,000 each.

He said that the Yellow Cab Co. which has operated the line since it was started in the fall of 1969, will continue operation until the city assumes the operation on Friday.

According to the personnel department, two of the present minibus drivers employed by the cab company have made application for employment with the city for operation of the buses and will have interviews Thursday with City Transportation General Manager Jerald Rae.

Woods said that it was his understanding that some of the older city bus drivers in terms of seniority may also be given the option of operating minibuses.

Wood also said that he anticipates word from the federal government within the next two weeks on approval of the federal funding of the bus system.

A letter was sent this week by Mayor Schwartzkopf to the Urban Mass Transportation administrator in Washington, D.C., seeking to amend the bus project budget of the city since the low bid received for the 36 45-passenger air-conditioned buses was $99,298 more than the city had estimated.

The letter asked that the following deletions be made from the original budget: installation of bus stop signs, $6,000; deletion of shop and garage equipment, $25,000; amount to be taken from contingency fund, $51,916, and the difference between the estimated amount for acquiring the Lincoln City Lines and the amount of purchase $16,382.

The total of these deletions amounts to the $99,298 more needed to pay for the buses under the submitted low bid.

In the mayor's letter, it was also stated that the city, in the near future, will make a further request for amending the grant contract to reinclude these items which are being deleted due to the excess cost for coaches.

VA Must Give Names Of Ex-GIs To Antiwar Unit

(C) Washington Star

Washington — A federal judge here has ruled that the Veterans Administration must turn over to an antiwar veterans group any lists it has of names and addresses of ex-servicemen who served in Vietnam.

The ruling is the first application of a three-week old opinion by the U.S. Court of Appeals here which held that government agencies can be compelled to supply, on request, lists of names and addresses they have on file.

The ruling by U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell ends a two-year battle by the Vietnam Veterans Against the War to obtain the lists. The group, which claims a membership of 15,000 with organizations in every state, says it will use the information to solicit for antiwar causes.

Schuyler Man Is Fatality

Schuyler (AP) — Eugene Faltys, 20, Schuyler, has died as a result of a one-car accident, the State Patrol said Wednesday.

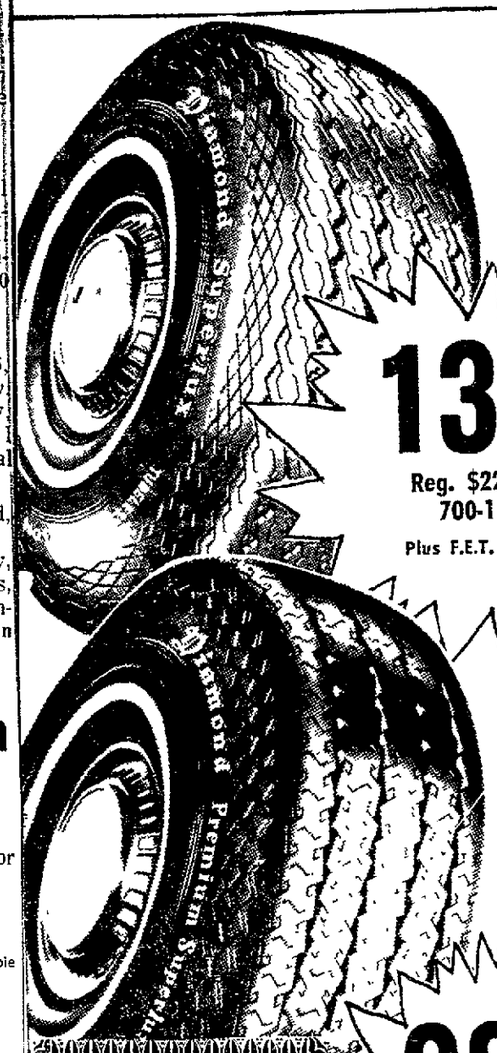

The patrol said it had received a delayed report that Mr. Faltys was injured Aug. 17 and died in a hospital Sept. 14.

Officers said he was a passenger in a car driven by Marian S. Miller, 16, Schuyler, when it went out of control and went into a ditch on a county road near Schuyler.

Brosio Honored

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon honored Manilo Brosio, 74-year-old Italian who is retiring as secretary general of NATO, by draping the blue ribboned Medal of Freedom around his neck at a white house ceremony. Nixon said the Medal of Freedom, could be described as the "medal of peace" in Brosio's case.

Stocks Steady In Slow Trade

New York (AP) — Stock market prices held steady Wednesday in the second-slowest day of the year.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 0.59 to 883.83.

Big Board turnover 8.59 million shares, second-lowest only to the 8.12 million shares traded Aug. 9.

Traders said the Yom Kippur Jewish holiday was keeping many investors away from the market.

There was little in the news background to spark either buying or selling interest, and the Dow remained within a point of Tuesday's close throughout the day.

Of the 1,626 stocks traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 635 advanced, and 628 declined. There were 18 new highs and 60 new lows.

The Big Board index of some 1,300 common stocks was unchanged at 54.08.

Airlines and oils were generally higher. Rails, metals, utilities, steels, and motors were off, while other groups were mixed.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index closed at 97.90 up 0.02.

A total of 69 blocks of 10,000 shares or over were traded on the Big Board, compared with 98 Tuesday.

Control Data was most-active on the Big Board, closing off 2¼ at 45½. A block of 94,000 shares traded at 45⅝, off 2¼.

On the American Stock Exchange, the price change index rose 0.02 to 25.33. Of the 1,013 stocks traded, 357 advanced, and the same number declined. Volume totaled 2.12 million shares, compared with 2.95 million shares Tuesday.

Corporate bonds were mixed, and governments were higher.

Fat Cattle Are Steady To Weak

Omaha (AP) — Fat cattle trade was steady to weak at Omaha Wednesday in moderate trading. Buyers were cautious and selective in view of a depressed price tone in the carcass beef market.

Cows were steady to weak, bulls were unchanged and feeder trading was quiet.

Hog prices firmed again, along with some strength in wholesale pork prices.

Fat lambs sold steady at recent declines, ewes were steady.

Stocks Steady In Slow Trade

New York (AP) — Stock market prices held steady Wednesday in the second-slowest day of the year.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 0.59 to 883.83.

Big Board turnover 8.59 million shares, second-lowest only to the 8.12 million shares traded Aug. 9.

Traders said the Yom Kippur Jewish holiday was keeping many investors away from the market.

There was little in the news background to spark either buying or selling interest, and the Dow remained within a point of Tuesday's close throughout the day.

Of the 1,626 stocks traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 635 advanced, and 628 declined. There were 18 new highs and 60 new lows.

The Big Board index of some 1,300 common stocks was unchanged at 54.08.

Airlines and oils were generally higher. Rails, metals, utilities, steels, and motors were off, while other groups were mixed.

The Associated Press 60-stock average closed off 0.3 at 322.5, with industrials unchanged, rails off 0.4, and utilities unchanged.

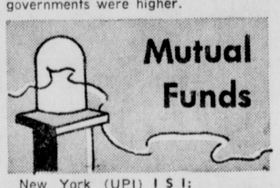

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index closed at 97.90 up 0.02.

A total of 69 blocks of 10,000 shares or over were traded on the Big Board, compared with 98 Tuesday.

Control Data was most-active on the Big Board, closing off 2¼ at 45½. A block of 94,000 shares traded at 45⅝, off 2⅛.

On the American Stock Exchange, the price change index rose 0.02 to 25.33. Of the 1,013 stocks traded, 357 advanced, and the same number declined. Volume totaled 2.12 million shares, compared with 2.95 million shares Tuesday.

Fat Cattle Are Steady To Weak

Omaha (AP) — Fat cattle trade was steady to weak at Omaha Wednesday in moderate trading. Buyers were cautious and selective in view of a depressed price tone in the carcass beef market.

Cows were steady to weak, bulls were unchanged and feeder trading was quiet.

Hog prices firmed again, along with some strength in wholesale pork prices.

Fat lambs sold steady at recent declines, ewes were steady.
